GIGANTIC SALE OF FURS!

Over 1,000 Sets and Single Pieces
WITH A DISCOUNT OF 10 PER CENT.

SALE BEGINS MONDAY DURING THIS SALE SALE BEGINS MONDAY

Make To-morrow the LOGICAL FUR BUYING TIME.

THAT the greatest variety and most favorable prices are to be had from the ECONOMY Center of Louisville will be further exemplified in this gigantic sale of furs starting here to-morrow. Such a host of Furs at prices holding out such money-saving opportunities has seldom if ever been marshaled together at any season of the year.

Qualities, modes, colors—all these details we haven't room for. Only be sure they are the choicest of the year and in a quantity like this diversified enough to answer every need. The under-pricing during this sale, together with the additional 10 per cent. discount to the sale prices, will simply put dollars in your purse by saving you anywhere from $3.00 to $50.00 on their original prices. It sounds amazing, but these figures prove its truth. Buy your Furs to-morrow.

1,000 Imported Wings
All Styles on 98c Ranging in Value
Sale Monday From $2 to $3.50

The Golden Rule Store has outdone itself in its effort to give this sale an impetus that will not only be fruitful of tremendously heavy selling, but will be remembered by every one who participates in it for a long time to come. Only an important purchase could bring this low price. In order to perpetuate his business, this importer sold 1,000 Wings at half and even less, the lot including Murron, American Paradise, Mercury Broad and Side Wings, all of them of exquisite quality in a confusing variety of colors—emerald, noir, navy, canary, catwba, marine, scarlet, maroon, russe, tobac and others, as well as black. None worth less than $2.00, then up to $3.50. Sale Monday at 98c

Great Pre-Holiday Sale of Handkerchiefs

The Golden Rule Store has been preparing for this sale for many months. Handkerchiefs, some of them being imported direct, which, after this sale, cannot be duplicated. Although just a bit premature, this sale affords excellent opportunities for you to anticipate your holiday wants and buy now, for not only will selections be better, but the price incentives will more than compensate for the early outlay. Choose yours to-morrow.

THE LATEST.

An exciting episode took place in the Circuit Court room at Georgetown late yesterday when a crowd of twenty-five men invaded the room during recess and demanded of J. A. Edge, a Lexington attorney, that he produce Mrs. Kate Richardson, who was recently released from the Lexington asylum on a writ of habeas corpus through the efforts of Edge and other Lexington attorneys. Edge was later fined $500 and sentenced to six months in jail for contempt of court in failing to produce his client, Mrs. Richardson.

Salvator, the fastest running race-horse the world has ever known, died yesterday at the Elmendorf Farm of James B. Haggins, near Lexington. Mr. Haggins was at the farm when the horse died. Salvator's world's record was 1:35 1/4, made in 1890 in going against time to beat the record of 1:39 1/4. He was foaled in 1886 and was by Imp. Prince Charlie out of Salena, by the great Lexington. Salvator won $120,000 on the turf.

Articles of incorporation were filed at Frankfort yesterday by the Burley Tobacco and Insurance Company, the successor of the Burley Tobacco Society. The company is capitalized at $2,000,000 and is to continue 100 years. The articles of incorporation say that the object of the company is to insure and finance the white Burley crop of Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio and Indiana.

Moreau P. Estes, vice president of the City Savings Bank of Nashville, Tenn., which failed to open its doors last Saturday morning, was arrested yesterday afternoon. The arrest was made on a warrant charging that Estes had accepted a deposit after he knew the bank was insolvent. W. T. Otley, of Burialville, Ky., is prosecutor.

The Fortola festival, which for five days has been celebrated in San Francisco, closed last night, the culminating event being a parade including a number of elaborate floats illuminated by power from the trolley lines of the United Railroads. The feature of yesterday was the automobile race meet on the Alameda county side of the bay.

Alleging that she is confined in a sanitarium for the insane illegally and for the purpose of enabling her husband and others to get possession of her property, Mrs. Eliza Plunkett, sister of the late millionaire, Thomas Swope, of Kansas City, made application at Nashville, Tenn., for a writ of habeas corpus.

The arrival of the Emperor of Russia in Italy for a visit to King Victor Emmanuel was not attended by any demonstration of ill-will, but, on the contrary, great crowds gathered and cheered the Czar. The authorities took every precaution for the protection of the Russian monarch.

The stock market at New York was weak yesterday and money conditions here and abroad were again advanced as the principal reasons. The opinions of bankers continue to reflect much diversity on the subject, the prevailing belief being, however, that the situation abroad has been much exaggerated.

President Taft visited Houston and Dallas, Tex., yesterday, but was forced to cut his speeches short because of the condition of his throat. At Dallas a bystander was run through with a bayonet by one of the militiamen engaged in handling the crowd.

William R. Hearst has injected the "White Slave Traffic" into the New York mayoralty campaign. Taking his cue from an article in McClure's Magazine, he charges Tammany Hall politicians with illicit trade. Leader Murphy declared the charge was nonsensical.

James S. Bralley, Jr., of Toledo, yesterday made a positive statement denying that the Bell Telephone Company interests have secured the independent companies controlled by Bralley through his recent purchases.

The funeral of Mrs. Basil W. Duke took place at Lexington yesterday under the auspices of the veterans and daughters of the Confederacy. Dean Cralk, of Louisville, recited the Episcopal burial service.

Owen Dye, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Roy Dalton, of Marietta, O., both drillers, were burned to death as the result of a gas explosion at Griffithsville, in Lincoln county, W. Va.

A site for the proposed monument in memory of the late Grover Cleveland will be chosen in the near future and the location will most probably be in Princeton, N. J.

The predicted 14 cent level was reached in the cotton market yesterday morning. March cotton sold at that figure and May advanced to about $1 a bale over Friday's close.

Gussman Wins At Golf.
Forest Hill, N. J., Oct. 23.—R. A. Gussman, of the home club, won the annual championship of the East New Jersey Golf Association on the links of the Forest Hill Club today, defeating S. P. Jones, of Elizabeth, N. J., 4 up and 1 to go.

VOICE UNEQUAL TO THE STRAIN

President Compelled To Cut Speeches Short.

Houston and Dallas Visited by Taft Party.

Soldier Uses Bayonet On Man In Crowd.

MORTAL WOUND INFLICTED.

Loses His Voice.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 23.—President Taft arrived here at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon after a fast run by special train from Houston, where he spent three hours this morning. He was taken immediately to the State Fair grounds, where he made an open-air speech to a throng which filled the big racetrack grandstand and spread far out in every direction.

Mr. Taft was so hoarse that he could be heard only a short distance, despite heroic efforts on his part. He spoke again briefly to-night at a banquet tendered to him at the Oriental Hotel and retired on his train preparatory to leaving early to-morrow morning for St. Louis. From St. Louis on Monday afternoon the President will begin a pilgrimage of four days and five nights down the Mississippi River to New Orleans.

On account of hoarseness the President did not attempt to make a long speech, either at the fair grounds or the banquet and confined himself in each instance to an expression of his appreciation of the warmth of his reception in Texas.

"I was asked to-day," said the President at the fair grounds, "if I had any doubt by this time about Texas being a part of the union. I replied that the only doubt I had was whether the union was not a part of Texas."

See Many Fine Towns.

On his way from Houston to-day the President traveled in the most populous section of the State and the succession of prosperous-looking towns and cities was in striking contrast to the barren stretches of barren cactus and mesquite brush plains in the West. At each station through which the train passed there was a large crowd to cheer the President. He made several brief little out-and-back trips, and at those places where no stop was scheduled he appeared on the platform to wave a response to the cheers sent up in his honor. At Hempstead the President spoke to several hundred people of the Prairie View Colored State Normal School and at College Station addressed the students of the Agricultural and Mechanical College who were drawn up in uniform.

Soldier Uses Bayonet.

An unfortunate incident of the President's trip to Dallas was the bayoneting of Deputy Clerk Louis Reichenstein by one of the militiamen on guard at the fair grounds. Reichenstein is said to be fatally injured. He was operated on to-night at St. Paul's Sanitarium and it was said he could not survive. The stabbing occurred just before the President's train arrived at the fair grounds and it is presumed that Reichenstein was trying to force a way through the crowd, although it is said that he was behind the wire cable holding the crowd back when the soldier used his bayonet. The sharp knife weapon went entirely through Reichenstein's body into the cavity of the abdomen. The matter is in the hands of the authorities.

Good Sure To Result.

"I spoke of it in Houston this morning," he said, "and it seemed to arouse a keen interest there. I found a similar spirit and feeling in Austin and I venture to say that it was wise in each city to suggest the subject and not reach a definite conclusion."

"That spirit of determination on the part of the citizens of Dallas that Dallas is bound to be the largest city in the State; that same determination of Houston and in San Antonio is sure to result in making one or other the biggest and in making all important in the development of this enormous State."

"It seems to me I have traveled a million miles in Texas and although you have had a wretched drought here, I do not find anywhere any discontent, any kicking or disaffection, but in its place a determination not to grow over anything that is past, but to make the next crop the biggest in the history of the State."

Crowd Is Restless.

The throng in the grandstand was restless and noisy. Those in the more remote sections of the cavernous structure were endeavoring constantly to get a better view of the President, and this resulted in continuous confusion and shouts from those whose view had been obstructed.

"I ought to have a voice like a steam whistle," said the President, "to make myself heard. I have a very bad voice, but in order to express my appreciation of the expansiveness of Texas, of the welcome I have had wherever I have gone, and the cordiality of your reception, I should strain every nerve and muscle of my body."

French Period Hats

The millinery models of to-day are copies, in a large measure, of those shown in old prints and portraits of the time of the various French rulers of the past century. The Parisian hat designers have hunted through the European galleries for authentic portraits of the people of these periods in order that their headwear might be copied for the modern woman of fashion.

Among the newest models we are showing of these various periods are the following:

The Duchess of Orleans
The Madame de Stael
The Premier Consul
The Agnes Sorel
The Louis XII
The Marie Antoinette
The Madame Pompadour
and The Charles IX

Brass Craft—the New Art.

This new branch of art appeals to every one interested in home decoration. Many articles, such as Book Racks, Trays, Hand Mirrors, Stools, Tankards, Etc., designed for combination of pyrography and brass work are extremely effective. Brass crafting is beating out a design in brass very much as you would burn a pattern in wood. Its practical working can be seen in our store any day in the art department on the fifth floor, where a young woman is showing how the work is done. We have outfits of all grades and are featuring an inexpensive one for beginners that contains:

One Small-designed Calendar of brass, one Calendar Pad, one Steel Tool, one package of Steel Wool, one package Polishing Powder, one package Stain, Polishing Velvet and Sandpaper 25c

Sale of Odd Pattern Cloths and Napkins.

While in New York last week our linen buyer secured the greatest linen plump of his twenty-five years' experience in the form of a clearance purchase of the entire stock of odd cloths and napkins from one of New York's leading linen importers. The cloths are very fine and are in all sizes and the napkins are all large dinner-size, but they don't match, hence the prices.

1,000 Fine Pattern Tablecloths, No Napkins To Match.

Nashville Woman Alleges Her Husband Is Attempting To Fraudulently Obtain Her Property.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 23.—Mrs. Eliza Plunkett, wife of Dr. J. D. Plunkett, alleges in an application for a writ of habeas corpus filed to-day in the Circuit Court that she is illegally confined in the City View Sanitarium, near this city, through the scheming of her husband and others, who have obtained thus some of her property and expect to obtain the remainder. Mrs. Plunkett is also well known in Nashville and elsewhere. She is a sister of the late Thomas Swope, of Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Swope was several times over a millionaire. Only a few Uncle Sam's New Sea-Fighting Craft Shows Well In Trial At Rockland, Me.

Rockland, Me., Oct. 23.—The battleship Delaware, the first American fighting ship of the Dreadnought type, made a splendid showing on her screw standardization run over the measured-mile course in Penobscot Bay to-day. While her contract calls for a speed of 21 knots per hour, the Delaware to-day attained a maximum speed of 21.98 knots and a mean of 21.44. In order to attain this speed the Delaware's engines were forced to develop 20,000 horse power, the highest ever made by a first-class battleship. A sister ship, the North Dakota, will have a trial over the same course ten days hence. The North Dakota was built by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, of Quincy, Mass., and is equipped with turbine engines. In addition to their heavy displacement and high speeds, the Delaware

BARRILL'S TALE
IS DISCREDITED*Former Partner of Guide
Makes Affidavit.*C. G. Bridgford Throws
Light On Controversy.*Charges Use of Money by Dr.
Cook's Enemies.*PEARY "KNOCKING" AGAIN.

Missoula, Mont., Oct. 23.—An affidavit contradicting the assertions of Edward N. Barrill in his affidavit declaring that Dr. Cook did not reach the summit of Mt. McKinley was secured by the attorneys representing Dr. F. A. Cook in this city to-day from C. G. Bridgford, until recently a partner with Barrill in the real estate business in Missoula, Mont. Other affidavits contradicting statements made by Barrill were also secured by the attorneys, but have not yet been made public. Bridgford will leave here Monday for New York, where he will appear as a witness in support of the statement he has made. His affidavit reads:

Bridgford's Affidavit.

"I have known Edward N. Barrill, of Darby, Ravalli county, Mont., for about ten or twelve years. I have always found Mr. Barrill a man of integrity. Although we have dissolved our partnership, we nevertheless bore to one another the closest relations of friendship. The first time I heard Mr. Barrill say anything relative to Dr. Cook's ascent of Mount McKinley was in September of this year; about the time of receiving the news of the discovery of the North Pole. He and a Mr. Nichols were talking. Mr. Barrill told me that Mr. Nichols wanted him to come to his office in Hamilton and make a statement to him in regard to Dr. Cook's ascent of Mount McKinley. Mr. Barrill said that he did not intend to go. He said that this meant money to him. Mr. Barrill told me that Mr. Nichols told him if he would come there and make a statement with reference to Dr. Cook reaching the summit of Mount McKinley he would give him a bond that he would get $10,000."

Started For Seattle.

"Then the next communication I had with Mr. Barrill was the evening before he started for Seattle. He told me a time or two of getting a telegram from a man by the name of Miller. I think Mr. Miller is a photographer in Seattle. He said to me: 'That party Miller, from Seattle, is at Missoula, and I am to meet him here to-night; this means from $1,000 to $10,000 to me.' That was the last I saw of Mr. Barrill until he came back to Seattle, which was on Thursday, October 7, 1909. He came up from Seattle and he went on up home to Darby that night. Mr. Barrill returned from Seattle, and he came going to New York, left the impression with me that he was going as the friend of Dr. Cook."

Mr. Barrill stated that he was there at Mount McKinley when Dr. Cook made the ascent of Mount McKinley.

"From what Mr. Barrill stated, I judged that Dr. Cook had reached the top of Mount McKinley. I judged as much from what other men told me as from what Mr. Barrill said. I saw prints told me that when Dr. Cook and Mr. Barrill returned from their trip and rejoined him that Barrill said: 'I introduce to you the man who went to the top of Mount McKinley.' Dr. Cook congratulated the doctor."

Constipation and Appendicitis

The Latter Usually Caused by the Former, Which, in Turn, Has Its Origin in Intestinal Indigestion

Chronic constipation is a disease which is about as prevalent as dyspepsia, and indication. Nearly everyone suffers from it occasionally, but there are millions of people who endure it habitually, and who are accustomed to resort to the use of laxatives and cathartics.

Many people seem to have developed a perfect mania for taking pills, and instead of trying to secure the permanent cure of the disease, and removing it by appropriate treatment, they are content to continue the chronic use of laxatives, aperients, drastic cathartics and violent purgatives, and with chronic constipation, the bowels become, which reaches the appendix, and the result is appendicitis.

In investigating the causes of the various factors of constipation and its frequent sequel, appendicitis, it has been found by physicians that in the vast majority of cases were preceded and accompanied by a long-standing gastro-intestinal indigestion.

The idea that appendicitis is brought on by the constipation and its sequel, appendicitis, is an exploded theory. It is now definitely known that constipation is the most prolific cause of this dread disease, while the constipation itself is previously induced by intestinal indigestion, or any cause of the disease, and removing it by appropriate treatment, they are content to continue the chronic use of laxatives, aperients, drastic cathartics and violent purgatives, and with chronic constipation, the bowels become, which reaches the appendix, and the result is appendicitis.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been the means of securing numerous cases of constipation, by first curing the intestinal indigestion. They digest every kind of food, a single tablet being capable of digesting 3,000 grains of albumen, and in addition to pepsin and other powerful digestives, they also contain diastase, which converts starch into sugar and readily cures any case of dyspepsia and intestinal indigestion.

If you are suffering from dyspepsia, constipation, and, in fact, indigestion of any kind, don't run the risk of getting appendicitis, but strike at the root of the trouble—the original cause—by using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which will quickly and permanently cure all disorders of the alimentary tract.

Secure a box of this digestive remedy from your druggist or from the nearest name and address to the F. A. Stuart Co., 160 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., for a free sample package.

HARTMAN'S

426 WEST MARKET STREET.

COL. HAAGER WAS HIS BEST FRIEND

Kinnearney Says Chief Has Turned Against Him.

Had Given Him Some Fine Detective Jobs.

Sam Owens Fears Chief Will Lose Out.

LOSS TO THE TWO PARTNERS.

Jim Kinnearney and Sam Owens are at a loss to understand the hostile attitude of Chief Haager toward them within the past few days. In fact, they looked so blue and down-hearted yesterday afternoon as they stood at Fourth avenue and Market street that a reporter who has known them for years was prompted to stop and ask them what was making them feel so badly. They looked as though they had lost their last friend.

"That fine in Police Court must be giving you a lot of worry to make you look so grim," the reporter told Kinnearney and Owens.

"It's not that," replied Kinnearney. "That wouldn't worry a man much who had been in the police and detective business for a number of years."

"Well, what is the trouble?"

"Haager," answered Kinnearney and Owens together. "We always considered the Chief the best friend we had in Louisville," went on Kinnearney. "I'm not kidding, either. Only within the last few weeks the Chief has apparently turned against us."

Haager Kinnearney's Friend.

"Haager knows as well as anyone in Louisville that Owens and I have made more money since we left the police force than we ever did before in our lives. And Haager has helped us to do it more than any single individual in Louisville. Why, I have made more money since I've been off the force than Chief Haager has as Chief of Police from his salary of $3,000 a year. And Owens has done just as well. It looks as if Haager had suddenly turned against us and we are losing a good friend."

"I always liked Haager, and I think Owens does also."

"Best friend I've had in the last two years," interrupted Owens, "and if I thought he wouldn't throw a few things my way after election I'd feel a whole lot bluer than I look."

"That's no stage joke," went on Kinnearney. "Haager has given us four jobs that netted us more money than we could have made on the police force in four years. Until within the last few days we haven't had a better friend in Louisville than Chief Haager. He went out of his way to recommend us for detective work that paid big money."

"The biggest job Haager got me was in Western Kentucky when the night rider troubles were at their top. I had been sick a long time, and I was completely without funds. My house was mortgaged and I owed money besides. One morning I got a telephone call and went to room 101 at the Willard Hotel. There I met a man who told me that he wanted me to do. I left the next day for Hopkinsville and Western Kentucky."

Said Haager Put Him Next.

"Before I went I asked the man how he had located me. He told me that Haager had recommended me as the man for the work. Well, I cleaned up enough in Western Kentucky in a few days to pay all my debts and buy a piece of business property besides. Do you wonder that I feel that Haager seems to have turned against me and my partner, Owens? If Haager is elected I would rather see Haager Chief than any man I know, because then I would have a friend that could throw work my way. I can't understand why he has been so bitter against Owens and me the last few days."

Got Job From "Drys."

"Haager got us the job of keeping repeaters away from Jeffersonville during the 'wet' and 'dry' fight over there last spring. He recommended me to the 'drys' as the best man he knew to help them win the fight. That the 'drys' were pleased with our work is evident from the size of the check given me in a church following the close of the 'wet' season. I was elected to the police force in the Kentucky side of the river. All Chief Haager asked me to do was not to tell anyone that he got the job for me. He said if it got out he was afraid that it would hurt him with the liquor interests in Louisville."

"Why, Chief Haager even went so far for me as to go and see the biggest men in the Louisville Railway Company and get me a $125 a month job. Then he got me so much outside work that I saw more money ahead for myself and Owens, and I thanked Haager and took the other work he offered me."

Owens was also in the dumps because of Haager's change of attitude. "I was asked by the Chief to help Bingham nominated," said Owens. "I was glad to do what I could, because the Chief had been such a good friend about recommending Kinnearney, my partner, to big fat detective jobs. I have never made more money in my life than I have since Haager began giving Kinnearney work. I'd hate to think that he was going to stop."

"I hate to think he is going to lose his job in November. It means a great loss to us," declared Owens finally.

BABIES' MILK FUND ASSOCIATION OFFICERS.

The annual meeting of the Babies' Milk Fund Association was held Thursday evening, October 21, at 8 o'clock, in the music room at The Seelbach. An enthusiastic audience heard the report of the supervisor, Mrs. Helen W. Rogers, who presented strikingly the wonderful growth of the association's work during the past summer. At the business meeting six vacancies on the board of trustees were filled, the officers for the coming year were elected and the standing committee appointed as follows:

Trustees: Mrs. S. H. Stone, Mrs. Leonard Barrett, Alex. Barrett, Mrs. Bigelow, Charles W. Allen and Dr. Philip Barbour.

Finance Committee—A. A. Bigelow, Charles W. Allen, Thomas S. Tukey.

Vitality Committee—Mrs. David Norton, Mrs. Alex. Barrett, Mrs. Leonard Barrett, Mrs. William Rogers, Mrs. Thomas Floyd Smith, Mrs. S. H. Stone, Mrs. Letchworth Smith, Miss Adele Brandeis, Miss Louise Bell.

A Beautiful Complexion

Is Dependent Upon An Absolutely Pure Condition of the Blood.

It is rare indeed to find a woman who does not desire to acquire a beautiful complexion, or to permanently maintain it, if she is so fortunate as to possess it. It makes little difference how expensive and stylish may be the clothing she wears, or how much she may be adorned with costly jewelry, if her complexion is sallow, her cheeks covered with pimples or blackheads and dark, semi-circles under the eyes, all efforts to make herself beautiful and attractive are entirely wasted.

The woman who is the happy possessor of a clear, clean, unblemished complexion, and a rosy, healthy color of the cheeks, is the envy of all. She is more fortunate than she. The fair sex spend thousands of dollars every year in their efforts to secure and preserve a fair skin and perfect complexion.

Powders, cosmetics, facial creams, with-out limit, are purchased and used on the cheeks in endeavoring to get rid of pimples, blotches, blackheads, red-spots and various other blemishes, completely overlooking the fact that all of these skin disorders are due to an impoverished and depraved condition of the blood, which must be purified and renovated in order to get rid of the unsightly skin diseases. It is equally absurd to resort to facial massage with fancy, perfumed cream, or steaming the face in hot vapors, or using an electro-vibratory machine in an attempt to improve the circulation of blood through the face with the idea of making the skin rosy.

Local treatment is simply a waste of time and money. Ladies who desire to gain and retain a smooth, clear skin, unaffected by blemishes of any kind, should use STUART'S CALCIUM WATER, which acts upon the system generally, and upon the blood specifically, removing it of all the impurities which float upon its current, and which are sent out through the pores of the skin by the blood in its efforts to stimulate the foreign matter, to the detriment and damage of the complexion.

These marvelous, little blood-purifying waters will clear the roughest and most thickly blemished skin of every form of cutaneous disease in a remarkably short time, and persons who have been trying vainly to rid themselves of pimples, blackheads, etc., will be agreeably surprised and pleased at the rapidity and completeness with which they do their work.

Obtain a box of Stuart's Calcium Waters from your druggist to-day, price 50 cents, then send us your name and address for free trial package. Address P. A. Stuart Co., 115 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

ENRAGED NEGRO

KNOCKS WHITE FOREMAN INTO SEWER DITCH.

Jesse Coones Suffers Severe Injury To His Back—Black Assaultant Escapes.

Enraged because Jesse Coones, foreman on the sewer works at Story avenue and the Cut-off road, reproved him for attempting to assault another white man, a burly negro, William Macey, knocked the white man into the open trench, spraining his back and bruising him about the body. That Coones was not instantly killed is regarded by those who witnessed the assault as nothing short of miraculous, for he fell a distance of twenty feet and landed on some of the scaffolding in the trench. The injured man was taken to his home, 1658 Story avenue, where his injuries were attended by Dr. Charles Morris. The negro escaped.

At about 11 o'clock yesterday morning the negro, Macey, became enraged in an argument with Charles H. Coones, the assistant foreman, and brother of the injured man, and attempted to tell him to get out of the trench. When he realized that he was matched he did so, but began to curse all the while. He was discharged and given him an order for his money.

With this Coones turned his attention to the work in the ditch and thought that the negro had gone to the office. But instead he again armed himself and making a cowardly attack on the white man knocked him into the trench and then fled.

As soon as his fellow-workmen could reach him, Mr. Coones was lifted from the ditch and taken to his home. Dr. Morris was called and dressed his injuries. In the meantime events were rapidly transpiring on the "two-works." Nearly the entire force of men, becoming excited over the deed, armed themselves with rods and other tools.

For many hours they searched for him, but without success.

LAST RITES OVER BODY OF WILLIAM COLEMAN PRIEST.

The funeral of William Coleman Priest took place yesterday morning at the residence at 7 o'clock, and then the body was taken on the 8 o'clock C. and O. train to Shelbyville, where the burial was. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. B. Lipscomb, pastor of the Highland Church of Christ, of which Mr. Priest was a member. Both at the house and at the grave the services were of the simplest nature, as Mr. Priest was opposed to any show or display of religious feeling.

BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS FILED AT PADUCAH.

HARVEST HOME DINNER TAKES PLACE TUESDAY

ACCEPTANCES TO INVITATIONS POURING IN.

OCCASION TO BE MARKED BY ORIGINAL TOASTS.

SOME UNIQUE DECORATIONS.

Dining in the midst of a cornfield is the novel situation that will greet the guests of the Louisville Commercial Club at the Harvest Home Dinner to be held at the Galt House Tuesday evening. Arrangements have been made to decorate every nook and corner of the big dining-room with corn shocks and fodder, pumpkins, turnips and other products of the Kentucky soil. The very atmosphere will be radiant with prosperity and every guest will find the notes of good cheer and the harvest home.

Among the many acceptances being received are samples of original toasts and everyone indicates a genuine satisfaction with the unique menu card and the original toasts that will be the feature of the occasion. Following are some of the original acceptances:

"Sure," JOHN H. LEATHERS.

"It will be thar," AL ENGELHARDT.

"Dear Mr. Secretary: Count me in. Here's the money; Nuthin but food. Ain't it funny?"

"I will be right glad to come to your dox Tuesday Nite if aunt Becky kin my new Sox knit in time. Retoon I'll want to know when I should take and sider since sam Joneses feedin over to the seelbach tavern high about twelve months ago. So you kin count on Bill bein on hand—sock or no sock—save a place for 'em."

WILLIAM C. BALLARD.

"I shall certainly be on hand for that Harvest Home Dinner of thine, pumpkin pie, hoe-cake and turnip-gravy. Arrange my plate next to the largest pot and give me the kitchen spoon."

BONNIE BROS.

"Answering your recent notice of the Harvest Home Dinner, best to say that tickets 168, P. J. Watson; 155, S. W. Bonnell; and W. O. Bonnell, Jr., will be used, as from the description of dinner in circular, nothing but a death in the family would keep any of us from being present."

BONNIE BROS.

"Among the farmers who have read the unique menu card and are hungry for a look at the big Harvest Home Dinner, the following is a sample from one of the most enthusiastic believers in plain country fare:

"Pine Hill, Ky., Rockcastle County, October 21, 1909.—Mr. R. S. Brown, Louisville, Ky.—My Dear Sir: The writer wants to know when I should take to become a member of the Harvest Home Club. The attached notice in the Courier-Journal causes me back to my boyhood days and makes my mouth water twice as fast as I can read it."

"Drop me a line and tell me if I can become a 'Home Harvester'."

R. HUTCHCRAFT.

A feature of the dinner will be the old-time welcome that will be extended by the members of the Harvest Reception Committee which is composed of the following:

Smith T. Bailey, R. S. Brown, Al Engelhardt, L. A. Oberdorfer, George H. Brier, Marmaduke B. Bowden, R. G. Brier, George W. Schwartz, T. J. Morrow and C. H. Whitehouse.

A $25.00 program will be given as first prize to the member of this committee who wears the most unique costume. Already intense rivalry has been manifested.

ALIKE IN ALL LATITUDES.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

"Mrs. Igloo—I haven't seen you in ever so long, Mrs. Cachay. Been ill?"

"Mrs. Cachay—No, Mrs. Igloo. I've been drying kumquats. Our folks all love it so well I've packed away forty-three boxes."

"Mrs. Igloo—I didn't put up any kumquats this year. The boys don't seem to care for it. I've got seventy-three cans of blubber and time waste of walrus oil."

"Mrs. Cachay—I didn't have any luck this year with blubber, but my seal fat pulled beautifully, and I've got a tub of blubber that I can't get rid of."

"Did you have any luck with your caribou grease?"

"Yes, fairly good. I trapped nine caribou and so on, an infinitum."

NATURALIZATION NOT NECESSARY

Republican Election Officer
Quoted As Saying So.

Two Russians Are Erased At Their Own Request.

City Hall Night Fireman
Can't Vote Either.

DEMOCRATS SCORE OFTEN.

Two Russians, now living in Louisville and who registered in the Sixth precinct of the Fourth ward, will not vote; nor will a fireman who works at night at the city hall; nor will a colored ex-convict, who in the County Court yesterday attempted to accuse a Democrat, of having tried to buy his registration certificate. The names of the two first mentioned were ordered erased in the request of one of them, who signed a statement that Max Grossman, Republican judge of registration in that precinct, told them they need not be naturalized to vote for "city" Mayor.

The Russian are C. Sherman and son, Monroe Sherman, who will have been in America fifteen months on the 24th of this month. The son is in the employ of the Herman Straus & Sons Company. The signed statement was presented to Judge Foster yesterday afternoon by Edward Roy, of Thum & Roy, counsel for the Democrats in the registration purgation proceedings. Chester Searcy, counsel for the Republicans, with Maj. W. C. Owens, combatted it unsuccessfully.

The statement introduced and which is made a part of the court records in the case is as follows:

"The undersigned, Monroe Sherman, says that he and his father, C. Sherman, came to this country about fifteen months ago, and have never been naturalized. On the night of the registration, last past, Max Grossman, the Republican judge of registration in the Sixth precinct, where the undersigned lives, 47 East Gray street, which I believe is the Sixth precinct of the Fourth ward, told me that we had been informed that we had never been naturalized, that it was not necessary for my father and me to be naturalized to vote for the city Mayor.

"Relying on those representations my father and I went to the polls. However, we were told that we were doing so illegally, or doing anything wrong, whatever, and now, having learned that we were asked, and named to register fraudulently, we have come here to have our names erased from the registration book.

"The communication is dated October 22, 1909, and witnessed by J. O. Westfall and Max Galtin.

"D. W. Smith is the night fireman at the city hall. He is an instance of a man brought here from another town to take the place of a citizen. However, he will not be allowed to vote for those who gave him the job. According to the testimony he came here from Kanawha City, Kan., less than six months ago, and went to work for the city the day after he landed here. He lives at West Chestnut street, and is registered as a Republican in the Thirty-second precinct of the Sixth ward. Judge Foster ruled that his name should be stricken off the books after Smith had acknowledged that he was not entitled to vote.

Ex-Convict Appears.

Charles Simpson, colored, an ex-convict of 418 East Walnut street, will not be allowed to vote. He said on the stand that he had been restored to citizenship, but that he had never had the papers in his keeping, had died without telling where they might be found. He admitted on the stand that he had served a term in the penitentiary and told of the paper that he had received when he left the prison. He said he could neither read nor write, and the court agreed with counsel that the man probably had reference to his discharge papers, and his name was ordered stricken off the books.

The negro, under the questioning of Chesley Searcy, Assistant County Attorney, attempted to get out the large card that one of the Democratic workers had offered him $1.50 for his certificate, and the negro went off with Capt. Robert Foster, perhaps to swear out a warrant against the alleged purchaser, who denied with vehemence the allegation charging that he had written and registered in the Fourth precinct of the Fourth ward.

Another Republican to be stricken from the lists was H. D. Rianhard, of 235 South Third avenue, and who registered in the Forty-first precinct of the Seventh ward. Mr. Rianhard admitted that he was often absent from the Pioneer Hotel, but that he considered that his place of residence when he was in the city. However, the court held that he had not established his residence there.

Other Republicans Lose Out.

Other names of those who had registered as Republicans and were stricken off by the court, are as follows:

John Henry Laws, of 2330 Transit avenue, who registered in the Forty-first precinct of the Third ward, and was shown to be only nineteen years of age and not eligible to vote.

Adam Ball, of 100 West Market street. He was registered in the Twenty-fifth precinct of the Twelfth ward and was shown to be a resident of the country.

John Ransom, of 429 West Chestnut street. He registered in the Fourth ward, and was shown to be a resident of the country.

THE REV. S. B. PETTINGILL
DIES OF APOPLEXY.

Saxtons River, Vt., Oct. 23.—The Rev. Samuel Barrett Pettingill, 70 years old, husband of Sue Harry Claggett Pettingill, a former Louisville writer of note, died from a stroke of apoplexy. The Rev. Mr. Pettingill was widely known as a clergyman, author and editor, and during the last half century had edited and owned some of the leading newspapers in the country. In 1885 he was made editor of the Portland Oregonian. He had also edited the Tacoma, Wash. News and the Tacoma Ledger, and had worked on and contributed largely to local papers for a great many years. In 1892 he organized Company B, Seventh Cavalry, the only company in the Federal army composed entirely of college graduates. After the war his story of the company, "The College Cavaliers," had a large sale.

CHARLES NEELY DIES
AT BREAKFAST TABLE.

Franklin, Ky., Oct. 23.—Charles Neely, a farmer, living near town, fell dead while seated at the breakfast table this morning. He is survived by a wife and four children. He was a son of Col. R. W. Neely, of this place, and a brother-in-law of Dr. L. A. Lagarde, president of the War College, of Washington.

Charming New Ready-to-Wears.

As a result of our buyer's trip to New York last week, we are daily receiving new Ready-to-Wear Garments.

These have been made for us along lines which are authoritative. A careful study of what has proven popular, most desired and absolutely correct, has resulted in our being able to show the very best and latest styles, colors and fabrics.

SPECIAL SUIT VALUES AT $25, $30, $35.

The assortment at each of these prices is very large, almost unlimited, in fact, including both the long and short coat models, plain and trimmed styles, and all the favored materials, diagonals, fancy serges, chevrons and the new shades, such as prune, rain, artichoke and coal dust. We cannot too highly recommend these suits. The materials and linings are high grade, the styles are the best, and the values are especially strong.

DRESSES AND GOWNS.

One-piece Tailored Dresses, $18.50, $20 and $25.

A big showing of stylish little models, simple in design, with unusually good lines and very well made. They are plainly tailored or prettily braided, and for wear with long cloth or fur coats they are very popular.

Pretty Frocks, of Soft Materials, $35, $45, $50, $65.

The ideal dress for the afternoon tea or card party. They are made of velvets, crepe de chine, crepe meteo, materials in which the new draped and tunic effects can be brought out to the best advantage.

COATS AT $13.50, $16.50, $17.50, $25.

Our showing at each price is enormous, but a woman's right to individuality has been given due consideration in the selection of these coats, and there are only a few of any particular style. At any price you will find coats in black and all the latest colors to go with every suit or gown. They are made in the very latest and most exclusive effects in plain tailored and semi-fitting models, and in a great variety of styles, trimmed with braid and buttons. They come in broadcloths, chevrons, homespun, sibilene, diagonals and fancy materials in all colors.

CAPE AT $15, $18.50, $22.50 AND UP TO $45.

Capes are very fashionable, and we are showing them in a great variety of designs and in all the street and evening shades, lined throughout with satin or peau de cygne. We also have them interlined for those who desire them. They are trimmed with lace, braid or embroidery, in exquisite designs.

More thought is being given to the stomach-to-day than to any other organ. Dieting and "hunger" cures are being tried, but the fact remains that we have to eat and that in the main we are eating the same food to-day that has been eaten for hundreds of years. The point, then, is to find a way of remedying an evil when we cannot avoid it.

There comes a time in the lives of all of us when a laxative is necessary, only when some this requirement occurs more often than with others. For some, whether the occasion is frequent or rare it is necessary that you take a simple, natural remedy. The farther you get from the sea, the more you need a pill and the salt purgative water the better. You want something that combines the virtues of a laxative and tonic, something that cleanses the stomach and improves the taste of the food. There is a remedy containing earth-grown vegetables and plants. Such is Dr. Caldwell's "Fruit Laxative," now nearly a quarter of a century a recognized household friend in thousands of homes. It is a simple, natural remedy that needs no better cure for constipation and liver trouble, for indigestion and your stomach, for sick heads and flatulencies. It is a remedy that is known to its laxative value it contains ingredients that have a tonic action in the stomach and bowels, and it cleanses the stomach and bowels. That is what the majority need—a tonic laxative. But so there may be no doubt about what you are getting, we will gladly send you a sample bottle free of charge upon receipt of your name and address. Write to Dr. Caldwell, and we will buy it of your druggist at fifty cents or less. It is the best, just as thousands of others are doing. Write to Dr. Caldwell, Napa, Cal., and we will send you a sample bottle, too, not only use it with good results, but you will be able to tell your friends, for owing to its mildness and agreeable taste, it is the best laxative for children. S. F. Mead, Waco, Tex., writes: "I also found a good family remedy in Dr. Caldwell's 'Fruit Laxative.' I was pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire. I have used it for years on my stomach, liver or bowels absolutely with perfect results. I have given it to my children and they are in perfect health and he will reply to you in a letter. I will send you a sample bottle of the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise, to Dr. Caldwell, Napa, Cal. For either request the doctor's address is 1000 Broadway, New York City, or 1000 Broadway, Monticello, Ill.

last night after a most successful season. The crowd was the best of championship harness horses for the St. Louis Horse Show cup and the crowd was the best of the cup of the American Saddle Horse Breeders' Association, prevented the crowds which have attended the show from being the best, and to-night's attendance was bigger than that of any other night of the season. The show was a great success, and the crowd was the best of championship harness horse event, no other night of the season.

The saddle horse ring was a tribute to the memory of the king of all saddle horses, old Rex McDonald. At every event of the show, the contestants were aired by old Rex. The first, second, third and fourth honors went to him.

Jack of Spades, a saddle pony from the Jones stables at Louisville, took first in the event of the show. The Jones and Jones' of the Lea won first honors over ten competitors in the event of championship horses.

The event of the show was won by Star McDonald in the five-gaited saddle horse ring, and Lavender in the harness event.

Fat people have to get into clothes that are designed for people of normal build. They have to wear suits and look like comic pictures. The women have to wear long, low-necked dresses to their evident humiliation. This is why it is often said that the fat man is a man who has made the mistake of poor health as anything else. The things that make fat should be making good blood, bone and muscle. The machinery of the body is out of gear. The juices make fat in too large quantities. This fat impedes circulation, cramps the heart, suppresses the liver, clogs the lungs and interferes with the stomach.

Tablets are harmless. They are taken after each meal. They help digest the food and make the stomach empty. They digested. They remove the fat a radical made at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day. They are sold wherever drugs are sold. They are sold in a category of the most powerful patent fat reducers. They contain Marmola, Cascara Aromatic and Pepsin. They are sold in 50-cent bottles upon your druggist, send 5 cents to The Marmola Company, Dept. 438, Des Moines, Iowa, and you will receive a full-size case and your return mail will be paid.

to Brush, which insured the house at Hector McLean's was temporarily absent from town, but that he had a brother named John McLean, who lived in Chicago.

With the will was a note pinned to a bank book and crudely written as follows:

"Was born Well Island, Scotland. My father and mother, Anne and Donald, were brother and sister, 143 Hastings Hotel, New York City."

Two more bank books showing deposits in the name of John McLean, New York banks were found, making a total of $900 in cash deposited in banks in New York City.

Following the message from Brush, Col. Mary Miles, of Hastings, received a letter from John McLean, of Chicago, stating that he had "telegraphed Hector McLean, of Brush, Col., to call at Hastings for the body."

MAIL CLERKS DIE FROM HIS INJURIES.

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 22.—(Special).—R. H. Hatfield, mail clerk injured in the Collinsville, O., wreck, died here to-day.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(Special).—J. P. Estes, vice president of the Citizens Savings Bank and Trust Company, was arrested this afternoon on the charge of receiving deposits when he knew the bank was insolvent. His bond was fixed at $5,000.

The arrest of Estes ended a week of sensational developments in connection with the wrecked institution. Early in the week Robert Vaughn was appointed co-receiver of the bank on petition of certain creditors. This was soon followed by a petition in the Chancery Court for the appointment of a receiver. W. H. Green, who had been assistant cashier of the bank. At the end of the first day's argument of counsel for those asking his removal, Green resigned. This afternoon Judge Taylor followed suit, appointing a receiver.

The affairs of the bank are badly tangled. There was practically no money in its vaults when it was wrecked on Saturday a week ago and the subsequent developments have only intensified the confusion.

THE Nemo SELF-REDUCING CORSET

TRIPLE-STRIP THAT EVER HAS OR EVER CAN REDUCE A STOUT FIGURE WITH COMFORT AND SAFETY

TAKE AWAY the patented and exclusive Nemo features from the Nemo Self-Reducing Corset, and you will have left just an ordinary corset—finer in design and much better made than most corsets, but simply a corset.

Without the special Nemo features no corset can be made that can possibly help a stout woman to re-shape and reduce her figure—except, perhaps, by main force, which always means danger.

Nemo Corsets are scientific in design and absolutely hygienic. Therefore, they produce fashionable slenderness with increased comfort and perfect safety.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE for other makers to produce Nemo effects without infringing Nemo patents; and, for this reason, all the attempted imitations of the Nemo Self-Reducing Corset are self-evident failures.

THERE'S A SELF-REDUCING NEMO FOR EVERY STOUT FIGURE
$3.00, $4.00, $5.00, $8.00 and $10.00

Nemo No. 403 is a new model for short-waisted stout women—low bust and under arm; with the new Nemo Relief Bands, which firmly support the abdomen from underneath—$4.00.

Nemo No. 801 is a model similar to No. 403, but made of fine white mercerized brocade; a luxurious corset—$8.00.

All Nemo Corsets at $3.00 or more are finished with the new Lastikops Hose Supporters, which are guaranteed to outwear any corset.

BIGGEST SULPHUR MINE.

(Van Norden Magazine.)

One of the strangest mines in the world is located underneath the prairie of Louisiana.
In this mine there are no shafts.
No one goes into it with pick and shovel, and they need no cutting machinery or safety lamps. Hot water and compressed air do all the work. From this mine more sulphur is taken than from any other place in the world, and as a result of its discovery the United States stands today as the greatest sulphur-producing country.

Here is the unique method of mining the sulphur. Boiling water is forced down the space between the ten and six-inch pipes, which turns the sulphur into a liquid, and this is sucked up to the top through the smaller pipes by compressed air, whence it flows into a large vat.
Some of these pits are 20 feet long, 20 feet wide and forty feet in height. They are made of heavy planking, and as the sulphur flows into them it becomes a solid mass, like a lot of coal or iron ore. When it is desirable to move it the sulphur is broken into lumps with hand picks and shoveled into cars like so much coal.

Some of the single wells actually produce 500 tons of sulphur daily. This region now supplies more sulphur for the world's use than the combined Italian volcanoes, from which formerly came the principal supply for all countries. And while the Italian sulphur is about 20 per cent. dirt and other foreign substance, the Louisiana product is 98 per cent. pure.

The antarctic expedition of Lieut.
Shackleton is said to have cost between $150,000 and $200,000.

STORM'S LASH

Wrecks Havoc In Frankfort and Vicinity.

HUNDREDS OF HOUSES PARTLY WRECKED.

WIRES PROSTRATED AND EX-TENT IS NOT KNOWN.

TREES AND ROOFS IN AIR.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 23.—(Special.)— Thousands of dollars of damage was done in Frankfort and Frankfort county last night by a windstorm which reached the proportions of a hurricane.
One church was wrecked in this county and hundreds of houses were damaged.
Trees were blown down, houses unroofed, chimneys toppled over, telegraph and telephone wires torn away and barns razed. For a time the wind attained a velocity estimated by experts at seventy-five miles an hour.

The wind hit the city with a terrible roar. It came up the Benson valley from the northwest and passed on up the valley of the Kentucky.

No one was killed or injured in Frankfort. The storm struck shortly after midnight and it probably was the cause of this that no one was hurt.
The streets were deserted before the storm came and for that reason no one was hit by the flying limbs of trees and parts of the roofs of houses.

Nearly Every House Suffers.

Mrs. William S. Speed that nearly every house in Frankfort had suffered more or less from the storm. All day reports came in from newspaper offices of damage done in the city and county. On account of telephone wires being down it was hard to get news from the country. Telegraph wires were down for some hours last night and Frankfort was cut off from the outside world. Communication was re-established to-day, and the wires are working, although in a crippled condition, to-night.

Church Wrecked.

At Forks of Elkhorn the Back Run
Baptist church was wrecked. The rear end was caved in and the organ ruined.
The church was flooded with water.
At Hatton, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, the residence occupied by Crit Childs was unroofed and the interior damaged. The family escaped injury.

The storm was especially strong at Bryant's schoolhouse and not a haystack in that section is left standing.
Tobacco barns belonging to Jim Moore and Sam Hamilton were blown down.
Each was full of tobacco and the crops probably will be a total loss. The haystacks on the farm owned by White Phillips were blown down and scattered about the fields. Rufus Bryant lost his corncrib, which was empty. A large tree was blown across the tobacco barn owned by Zach Eulliam and the roof damaged. The rain poured in on his crop of tobacco.

Along the road leading from Frankfort to Bryant's schoolhouse trees were blown down, haystacks turned over and barns unroofed. Hardly a house or small outbuilding was left in place.

Damage In Frankfort.

At the house formerly occupied by John Ray, but now owned by the Rev.
Dr. C. R. Hudson, on Second street, a large maple tree was blown down. It fell on the roof of the house, knocking a large hole in the roof and doing considerable damage.

A large tree was blown onto the house on Shelby street occupied by Mrs. Nell Church and the roof damaged. Water poured into the hole made by the tree and damaged the contents of one of the rooms.

Windows were blown in at the residence of Mrs. W. S. Johnson, Second and Shelby streets; James Andrew
Scott, on Shelby street, and Mrs. J.
B. Uitterback, on Shelby street.

Panic In Capital Hotel.

The storm caused much excitement at the Capital hotel and many of the guests rushed out in the halls with their night clothes on. Workmen had been doing some repairing up in the roof of the hotel and left the windows open. The wind blew down the heavy scaffolding which had left up and it crashed down into the second floor with a terrific noise. Those who were awake thought the hotel had partly blown down and rushed out of their rooms to find that no serious damage had been done.

On the farm of Mrs. Young in the county a large barn was hit and the foundation and moved several feet.
The farm of Mrs. H. P. Mason, on the Versailles road, was unroofed and the hay and corn got a good soaking.

At Baker Bros.' distillery, at the Forks, parts of the roofs on the two warehouses were torn off and the shov-troughs were blown down, but the re-warehouse, which is only half finished, was not damaged.

The tobacco barn of George L. Hannen, near Forks of Elkhorn, was partly blown down and the large chimney to his residence on East Main street was blown off as smooth as if cut off with a big knife.

Damage Amounts To Thousands.
Many haystacks and much fencing was blown over in many different parts of the county, and altogether the damage will amount to many thousands of dollars. The large barn of Mrs. Park, at Park Place, was blown down. The house of Mr. Jones, on the corner of Main and Third streets, was blown down like structures which gave way before the fearful violence of the windstorm.

A valuable horse, which was stabled in the barn, was killed when the structure collapsed on top of him.

A tree in front of the residence of John W. Gaines on Broadway, was twisted off its roots as if by a corkscrew, and hurled over a fence on top of a number of fine automobiles parked on the grounds of the People's Mind Institute went down before the force of the wind.

At the Old Judge distillery, which was right in the pathway of the storm as it blew up Benson valley, the roof was blown off the warehouse and the catkins were damaged. Much damage further up Benson was also reported.

The large tobacco barn of William Edwards, above Adamstown, on the Versailles pike, was blown down. The room of the mechanical hall of the Colored State Normal School was wrecked.
The roof of the old South warehouse on Broadway was damaged, while one of McCure's large plate glass windows and a window in Selbert's jewelry store gave way under the terrific hammering of the atmospheric pressure. A window on the fifth floor of the new Rogers building went out.

Wires Down.

The telephone and telegraph companies were probably the heaviest sufferers, however. Out of 250 lines into the county, the East Tennessee Telephone Company this morning has only twenty-five in working order. All of the toll lines are out of commission. The Home Telephone Company is equally as badly crippled, and it will be several

Charcoal Lozenges
Powerful Absorbents
Offensive Breath and Stomach Gases Cannot Exist When They Are Used.

Charcoal, by virtue of its porous nature, takes up gases mechanically just as a sponge takes up water. It is in proportion to the number and fineness of its pores. Charcoal made from willow-wood is the most powerful absorbent of all kinds of gases. Certain other woods, such as pine, are used by some manufacturers in making charcoal, and besides not being half as effective in absorbing stomach-gases, have also been found to be positively harmful to the digestive system.

Willow-wood charcoal is, then, the very best for the purpose of absorbing excessive gas of the stomach, removing intestinal flatulency, and purifying foul breath. Charcoal is an effective and safe gastric antacid and is introduced among the gases of the stomach in the same state as when fresh from the tree. The means of effecting this is to compress them into solid lozenges, which are then dissolved in the mouth and swallowed. The charcoal acts freely and at once begins its work of oxidizing and absorbing foul gases, and, through its antiseptic properties, of purifying the entire alimentary tract.

It is definitely known that the absorbent and cleansing action of charcoal is produced and continued through the intestinal system as well as in the stomach, and is proven by the fact that it is also found in STUART'S CHARCOAL LOZENGES. We have a gas-absorbing remedy which really takes precedence over all others. The charcoal used in them is the very best, and is obtained from the willow-wood of the finest young willow-wood, converted into charcoal by the use of the vacuuming Stuart, Process, and before being compressed into lozenges, that powdered charcoal is rendered sweet and thoroughly agreeable to the taste by being mixed with pure honey, and the result is a product equally as palatable as candy.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges have attained a wide popularity among the people of all ages, and have been found to be equally effective in relieving and curing flatulency, belching, eructation of gases, and finally in the purification of the entire system.

Buy a package of these little lozenges for your druggist for 10 cents and forward as your name and address for free sample package. Address: P. A. Stuart Co., 29 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

MAKE READY FOR TRIP.
Steamboats At St. Louis Decorating For President Taft's Party.

St. Louis, Oct. 23.—All the steamers that are to join the flotilla to escort President Taft on his trip down the Mississippi River to New Orleans next week were tied up here to-night.

The crews were busy to-day cleaning and decorating their boats. The United States torpedo boats which have been here since the city's centennial celebration earlier in the month, will leave at dawn to-morrow. It had been intended that they should lead the fleet, but they were ordered to stay.

Lieut. Mitchell, commanding the destroyer Macdonough, Low water-master and George Yarns announced that they would not be members of the Port-land club next season, and that Port-land club members should make a move to make a position on the Fall River, Mass., club, while the latter has already signed with San Antonio. The "Pop" Williams announced that his son Howard would again lead the Portland club next season, and that Port-land club members should make a move to make a position on the Fall River, Mass., club, while the latter has already signed with San Antonio.

Supper For Portland Club.
The Portland Baseball Club gave a supper last night at the Hotel. The club members and the hits that dealt out were enough to strengthen any batting average. More than thirty persons were present and all complimented the Portland management upon its successful season of 1909.

A severe lilt was handed to Capt. Howard Williams' team when John W. Johnston and George Yarns announced that they would not be members of the Portland club next season, and that Port-land club members should make a move to make a position on the Fall River, Mass., club, while the latter has already signed with San Antonio.

EARLY MATINEE.
(London M. A. P.)
A theatrical performance beginning in the small hours of the morning is sufficiently novel to be worth recording. French theatrical company which has been touring in South America, and which performed at Rio de Janeiro, telegraphed from Rio that they would give a performance at Dakar, on the West Coast of Africa, when the steamer arrived there. At 8 o'clock the theater was full, but the company was missing. After waiting for a considerable time, the audience was sent away disappointed. At 11:30 the steamer arrived, and the audience was sent away disappointed. At 11:30 the steamer arrived, and the audience was sent away disappointed.

AT OLD AGE

Death of Mrs. Virginia Laion Crittenden.

SISTER-IN-LAW OF LATE GOV. CRITTENDEN.

END COMES FROM ATTACK OF PNEUMONIA.

ALMOST BLIND FOR YEARS.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Mrs. Virginia Laion Crittenden, wife of the late John Allen Crittenden, died this morning at 8 o'clock from heart failure, superinduced by a mild attack of pneumonia, from which she had been suffering since last Monday. She was in her 82d year, having been born in April, 1828, and was the daughter of Richard Jackson, of Woodford county, her mother being Miss Laion. Her husband, who died a number of years ago, was for a long time one of the chief clerks in the State Auditor's office under Gen. D. Howard Smith and under Gen. Fayette Hewitt, and was well known to all the citizens of Frankfort. Mrs. Crittenden is survived by five children—Mrs. William E. Hunt, Henry Crittenden and Orlando Crittenden of Greenville, Miss.; Mrs. Mary Haycraft and Mrs. Ed. H. Brown, of Frankfort—all of whom were at her bedside when she died. She has one sister, Miss Sallie Jackson, of Frankfort, who survives. Her husband's only full brother, Gov. Thomas T. Crittenden, of Missouri, died a few months ago, but two of his half-brothers, Gen. Logan Murray of Louisville, and Gen. David R. Murray, of Hardsburg, are still living.

Probably no one in Frankfort has ever known of a sweeter, gentler or more lovable Christian character than that of Mrs. Crittenden. She had been practically blind for many years. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church and attended the meetings regularly, even after her eyesight had failed. Monday a physician was called in and pronounced her condition bronchial pneumonia. Later in the week the malady grew worse, and her children in Greenville were telegraphed for and arrived here Thursday night. Friday she seemed considerably better, but last night she began to sink rapidly and the end came peacefully this morning.

The funeral will be at the Crittenden home in South Frankfort at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon and the interment will be in the Frankfort cemetery by the side of her husband. The services will be conducted by the Rev. B. B. Ziegler, of the First Presbyterian church.

Permit for Invasion.

In accordance with a long established custom permission from Gov. Patterson, of Tennessee, will have to be secured before the Kentucky National and Industrial institute for colored people can be held at Hickman, can enter Tennessee. McKenzie R. Todd, the Governor's secretary, has been communicated with Gov. Patterson and the necessary permission will be secured. In order to get to and from Hickman for the Kentucky National and Industrial institute for colored people, soldiers, who will go to Hickmanville and Marion, will have to go into Tennessee in making train connections. It is customary to send them to be asked before armed men are sent from one State into another and while it is perfectly true that it is always done, Kentucky soldiers are to act as policemen in handling the crowd at Hickman next week.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Resolutions on the Death of Mr. Abraham Godwin Munn By the Board of Managers of the Cook Benevolent Institution.

At a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Cook Benevolent Institution, held this 19th day of October, 1909, the following resolutions were adopted:

We are deeply grieved to learn of the death of our honored and esteemed friend and valued President of the institution, Mr. Abraham Godwin Munn. His noble character, his high standing in the community, and his devoted service to the cause of the colored people, have been a constant inspiration to us. His death is a great loss to the institution and to the community. We deeply regret the loss of such a noble and devoted man. His death is a great loss to the institution and to the community. We deeply regret the loss of such a noble and devoted man.

Card of Thanks.

To our kind friends and relatives who assisted us in the sad hours of our late father's illness, and who were ever present at the bedside of our mother in her last hours, and comforted her by their presence, and who wish to extend our most sincere thanks.

CHILDREN OF BRIDGET LANGAN.

Card of Thanks.

I hereby wish to tender my sincere thanks to all the friends of my deceased father, Mr. John Langan, for the tokens of love and friendship extended him during his illness and also at the funeral. Especially do we thank the Rev. T. John, the pastors, the donors of the floral offerings and all those that accompanied the body to its last resting place. The bereaved children.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to return our sincere thanks to the many friends and relatives for their sympathy shown toward us in the loss of our beloved father, Mr. John Langan. Especially do we thank the Rev. T. John, the pastors, the donors of the floral offerings and all those that accompanied the body to its last resting place. The bereaved children.

Negro Pupils Expelled.

Two members of the senior class of the Kentucky Normal and Industrial institute for colored people have been expelled from the institution by President Jackson for ungentlemanly conduct toward two girls students. One, a young colored man named Hoard, hailing from Indiana, was expelled last week for the alleged writing of an indecent note to a girl, who immediately turned it over to the matron. A youth named Hoard, from near Midway, was expelled yesterday by President Jackson for annoying a girl on a street car.

To Play Tuskegee.

The football team of the Colored Normal School is planning for a big game against the eleven from Tuskegee Institute—Booker T. Washington's institution—on Saturday, Oct. 30, at Tuskegee. The team has been defeated by the team from Tuskegee, but they are determined to win this time.

Burley Tobacco Articles Filed.

Articles of incorporation of the Burley Tobacco Company were filed here today by John Nichols, a bookkeeper of the company. The capital stock is $200,000.

No action has been taken by either the Attorney General or the Secretary of State regarding the articles of incorporation of the Citizens' National Life Insurance Company.

The Attorney General has not given an opinion regarding the articles of incorporation of the Citizens' National Life Insurance Company. No action will be taken until the return of Dr. Ben L. Bruner, Secretary of State. If the Attorney General gives it as his opinion that there are no defects in the articles and they should be filed, it is probable that his opinion will be accepted by the Secretary of State, but this is a matter for Dr. Bruner's consideration. The matter has never been presented to him.

DOES CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE THROUGHOUT COUNTY.

Fair and Warmer Weather To-day and To-morrow Was Forecast Last Night.

"Fair to-day and to-morrow; warmer Monday" is the official forecast issued last night by the Weather Bureau. The storm of Friday night did some damage to trees and fences throughout the county. The instruments at the customhouse showed that the wind blew for a short while at the rate of thirty-three miles an hour.

The future trade of each and every customer is what we look forward to. There's only one way to get it—make every customer feel entirely satisfied with every purchase—or refund the money. Satisfied customers build business—this is how the Trumbo store has grown to be one of the largest house-furnishing stores in this city. These facts are well worth considering.

THE BEST OF THEM ALL!

The Sealy Mattress is a bed entirely different from the ordinary everyday mattress and far superior to any mattress made. It is built without any tufts, just a smooth, easy, elastic surface, that insures rest and comfort, producing the most delightful night's sleep you ever experienced. Come see it, inside and out; what it is; how it's made. Guaranteed for twenty years. We are exclusive agents.

Trumbo's Kitchen Cabinets

We have the best line of Kitchen Cabinets in this city for the money, and they are not priced away up to the skies, either. Our Cabinets are right up to date and have a place for everything required in kitchen work; in fact, every convenience any other cabinet has, only our cabinets do not cost as much. We have one Cabinet that has proved very popular for $10. Have sold lots of them. For $15 we have one that cannot be beat. Come see them.

Now you see something; now you don't. Sometimes you see what you think you do; sometimes you don't. More often you don't than you do.

With all the ingenious apparatus that has been contrived, what chance have a man's eyes? They see only what the performer wants them to. For centuries these contrivances have been in process of invention and perfection.

Of the many tricks which go to make up a magician's programme, there is not one, to my recollection, with which the performer can create more laughter and excitement than the old favorite "Dice Box." Within the last few years there have been many new inventions for causing large dice to appear and disappear, and while many of the new ways are good there is none so laugh-provoking as that which I am about to describe.

I have seen my father use this simple little device to great advantage, and

I myself have often found it to be of the utmost value.

After borrowing a derby or high silk hat from a member of the audience, the magician exhibits a wooden box, which consists of two square compartments, each of which has two doors, making four doors in all: two on the top and two on the front, as in diagram No. 1. The box is divided into two compartments by a thin partition.

After this, the performer shows a block of wood about three inches square, painted to represent a large die, as shown in diagram No. 2. The way in which the magician expresses himself may help to make you understand the situation more clearly.

"Ladies and Gentlemen, I am about to make this die pass from the box into the hat, I can make it pass visibly or invisibly, whichever you may desire." Of course there are many cries of "Visibly," whereupon the magician places the die into one side of the box, where it lies snugly; calmly takes it out with his right hand and passes it into the hat, which is resting upon a table or is held by an assistant.

Just when the spectators see how they have been fooled, the magician exclaims:

"I will now cause the die to pass invisibly." Saying this, he takes the die out of the hat and places it in the box. Closing all four doors, the magician taps the box with his magic wand, then opens the two right-hand doors and shows that side empty. Closing the right-hand doors, he lifts the box in the same direction, when something is heard to slide within the box. The slight sound is always the signal for murmurs from the audience. The left-hand doors are next opened, and that side is shown to be empty.

Closing the doors again, the magician lifts the box to the left, when the sound of something sliding within is heard a second time. It is now that many members of the audience imagine that they have solved the mystery, thinking that there is no doubt that the noise heard is the die sliding from one side of the box to the other.

Shouts of "Open the box!" are now heard from all parts of the house. It is just at this time that the magician knows that his trick is a success. He opens one side and then the other, each time tilting the box from side to side, and each time the sliding noise is heard. In the midst of the cheering and laughter, some smart individual, who thinks he has the right idea, shouts: "Open both sides at once!" "Ah!" says the magician, "you would like to see both sides at the same time?" Stepping impressively forward, he opens all four of the doors and holds the box far out over the footlights. Of course, it is quite empty. Then turning to the hat, he brings it forward and, overturning it, throws the block upon the floor.

Then the little man in the gallery who has shouted so loudly sinks back into his seat, having been taught a severe but good lesson.

Diagram No. 2 shows that the wooden die must have a cover consisting of four sides. The die must fit snugly into the cover, and the cover must fit into one side of the box.

The box is constructed as in diagram No. 3. The back, bottom and both ends are solid, while the front and top consist of frames, to which the doors are attached by means of small hinges. The box is divided into two parts by means of a third cover, exactly like that which covers the die. This cover is concealed in the box and held in place by the framework (A, B, C and D, diagram No. 3). I will call this cover No. 2. It cannot be seen by the audience, having been placed in the box with the open sides toward the top and front. Cover No. 1 becomes invisible when placed in Cover No. 2, the front and top being open in the same manner.

After showing the solid die, the magician places it in the box, and in so doing slips it into cover No. 1, which is resting in No. 2. Upon taking the die out of the box, the magician has, in effect, taken cover No. 1 from the hat, letting the die remain.

Next, turning the box with its back to the audience and holding the cover with the open sides toward himself, the magician places the die in the box. When the box is tilted from side to side, the covers, fitting one within the other, slide from one side to the other, and it is this noise that deceives the audience. The inside of the box and each cover is painted to represent the die, and when all doors are opened the box is apparently empty.

LAKES-TO-THE-GULF DEEP WATER CONVENTION.

Begins in New Orleans October 30—
Many Louisville Business Men
To Attend.

Prominent men of Louisville, representing every branch of industry, commerce, science and progress, will be busy making preparations for now on to attend the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterways Convention in New Orleans, October 30 to November 2. They will go from Louisville as representatives of the Board of Trade and the city itself, and will reach New Orleans in time to attend the opening session of the convention, which will be distinguished considerably by the presence of the delegates from the Board of Trade of the United States, William Howard Taft.

In all, according to the official list given out yesterday, between thirty and forty leading men, all members of the Board of Trade, will make up the party. While the programme for the journey to and from New Orleans is not yet made up it is expected that a committee will be appointed in a day or so to arrange for a special train both ways. The following is a list of the delegates selected for the trip:

Bernard Bernheim, chairman; C. C. Menzel, R. L. McKellar, Marion E. Taylor, S. Zorn, Lawrence Jones, Theodore Adams, Peter Lee, Albert H. Smith, J. Bridges, Owen Gathright, J. V. Reed, Thomas Floyd Smith, Lucien J. Irwin, Clarence Dillard, Charles B. Allen, James M. Johnson, Fred W. Keiser, Charles T. Ballard, C. B. Compton, Vernon Wolfe, D. Meschery, Charles E. Long, A. Levy, F. W. Harlow, Edward Babcock, W. E. Chubb, C. C. Allen, J. Kinison, J. M. Ryan, C. C. Fuller, W. A. Montz, C. H. Hagerty, Charles H. Bohrer, M. L. Akers, W. S. Newman, president Board of Trade, James F. Buckner, Jr., superintendent of the Water Commission, and will leave to-night for St. Louis.

Euchre, Lotto and Dance.

Trinity Council, No. 29, Y. M. C. A., will give a euchre, lotto and dance Wednesday at their clubhouse, Baxter and Morton avenues. The invitations are that it will be one of the largest affairs given by Trinity Council. Euchre and lotto will be played on the two lower floors and dancing will take place on the third floor at the same time.

The euchre in the afternoon will commence at 2:15 o'clock and the euchre, lotto and dance will commence at 8:15 o'clock.

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY ENDEAVORING TO ANNEX CONDITIONAL GIFT OF MRS. SAGE

Must Raise $300,000 Within Next Two Months Before Securing Additional $500,000.

During the coming two months the American Bible Society will make determined efforts to secure the $300,000 necessary to make available the conditional gift of Mrs. Russell Sage of $500,000. As $200,000 has already been secured on condition that all be raised, it will be seen that $100,000 now hangs over the society, but this the society stoutly denies, and expresses the fear that none will be secured unless the terms are complied with.

The American Bible Society, one of the religious agencies coming down from upwards of a century of usefulness, has been overshadowed in its work in many ways by a multitude of agencies intended to emphasize the Bible in the home, and to bring the Bible to the attention of the people. It has at times been criticized for its administration, certain perhaps to come in a society so old. But its service to Christian advance is not to be overlooked. Missionaries go into many lands, speaking many languages, and they can do little until they have the Bible in the hands of the people whom they desire to reach. Missionaries send out missionaries, but they do not furnish Bibles for them to use. It furnishes not a few, but many editions in many tongues, and without its service to missions the advance of the Gospel in foreign lands would have been far less than it has been. Until now system has been wanting in meeting Mrs. Sage's conditions, but it is stated that this want has been supplied.

Agreement Reached.

American delegates to the conference at Upsala, Sweden, to consider Swedish church orders, have agreed that the society should accept the word that agreement has been made upon all essential matters. This initiative of the Archbishop of Upsala, who asked the Archbishop of Canterbury to name delegates to come to Sweden, has been accepted by the representatives of the Episcopal Church in this country, and the meeting of all, some thirty like the Talmage, the Beecher, the Halls and even the Heber Newtons.

A marked feature of the proposed new Fifth-avenue Baptist church is to be its comparative inexpensiveness. The trustees acknowledge that they realize the small value of an edifice and the future great value of land in Fifth

The ominous signals of quick-approaching disaster to health (and life itself) are the insidious symptoms of Kidney and Bladder Disease. If you have noted their presence—take warning—now, before it is too late.

You may have felt only an occasional "crick in the back" when rising, or have observed a slight smarting from your urine, or, perhaps, noted spells of irritability, languor and nervousness, etc.—or some soreness of muscles that your work will not account for. But—take care! These symptoms will grow and multiply—until, perhaps, you are past help. De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are a thoroughly efficacious treatment, designed for just such symptoms as these—and for what such symptoms quickly lead to.

For these symptoms—and many others of a similar nature—surely and plainly indicate deadly uric acid poisoning of your system. There can hardly be any mistake about that. The great mistake will be, if you neglect them.

Uric acid poisoning means diseased kidneys and bladder—then chronic inflammation of the kidneys, bladder and prostate. De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are a thoroughly efficacious treatment, designed for just such symptoms as these—and for what such symptoms quickly lead to.

avenue or near it. Furthermore they disclaim any intention of building what anybody may have reason to call a place of worship that is lavish in expenditure upon it. Hence the limit of $400,000 in a structure that is to be one hundred by one hundred feet, and contain some parlors besides auditorium. There is even talk of limiting the cost to $350,000. No one will be able to cry extravagance.

Hebrew Immigrants.

Influential Hebrews of New York, assisted in some measure by the same class in other Eastern cities, have just taken up again the movement to induce Hebrew immigrants to go into the interior cities, and especially cities of the Southwest, instead of entering the ghettos of New York's famous East Side. Behind the undertaking is a fund of upward of $1,000,000. This fund was subscribed two years ago just before the financial depression came on. Work was suspended for a time, but is now resumed.

With headquarters at Galveston, Tex., the plans are to go into touch with Hebrews in Russia, Germany and England who, contemplating coming to America, and so far as possible to work, or even to give information concerning it. The men, knowing conditions, will themselves act. At the same time all hostility to present authorities and present management, is disclaimed. It simply represents an advance in missionary method.

Successful Minister.

So marked has been the success of the Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked since his coming to America from England to become pastor of the church in New York, which the Rockefeller, father and son, intend, that a new place for him to preach in is to be erected at a cost of $400,000. It is a place for him to preach in rather than a church for nearly all else will be sacrificed to auditorium that is large enough to hold those who wish to hear this crowd until the church is hidden by high buildings on the corner. Efforts were made to secure a Fifth-avenue location, but the expense was so great that even a congregation having two Rockefeller members of the church, and having concluded to rebuild on the present site.

Hardly since the Rev. Dr. John Hall died has there been a preacher in New York who attracted the crowds until the Rev. Dr. Aked came. He is doing it. Church attendance in New York is not decreasing, and the number of great parishes on Manhattan Island having 1,000 members or more has doubled within the last ten years, and yet save the Rev. Dr. Aked, none are cited as in the old days of the Talmage, the Beecher, the Halls and even the Heber Newtons.

A marked feature of the proposed new Fifth-avenue Baptist church is to be its comparative inexpensiveness. The trustees acknowledge that they realize the small value of an edifice and the future great value of land in Fifth

The series of meetings just started at Buffalo, under the auspices of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, are the most ambitious in scope and greatest in number of any similar series in the world. Two criticisms of them have been heard. One is that they are for foreign missions only, and the other that mass meetings are of doubtful value, while they cost large sums. The criticism of the first-named class comes chiefly from home mission interests, and those who belittle the efficacy of educational classes on such large scale are taking good care to get into the meetings in Sweden, in order that their organizations may reap any benefit that may be going.

The two series of meetings in a total of seventy-five, proceed through the Northern cities as far west as the Missouri river under one committee, and through the South, along the Pacific Coast to San Francisco, under direction of the other. The Northern series is considerably larger. Most stops will be for two and three days only, but in a few cities a whole week will be given. Appeal has been made to observe Sunday, November 14, as a day of prayer for the success of the series, but ministers are replying that so many special days are already observed, or recommended to be observed, that it is doubtful whether the date now suggested will be very generally observed.

The campaign is an educational one, not the formation of any new agencies. It has the co-operation of most Protestant missionary agencies, and its aim, beyond education, is to increase the amount of contributions to foreign missions through the regular and official societies.

New Educational Head.

Presbyterians have just named an educational head for their mission Sunday-schools. The last General Assembly sought to unify the educational work of the church, and in this effort created one agency and put the administration of it in the hands of the board of publication. The new head is the Rev. E. Morris Ferguson, for many years identified with the Sunday-school work in New Jersey and founder of a summer conference on such work held annually at Asbury Park, and for the last ten years an assistant in the preparation of the Westminster lesson books.

There are almost 3,000 Sunday-schools under the care of missionaries of the board, while there are also a great number of schools connected with mission churches. It is both to lead and to supervise the instruction of children in these schools that the new head is named. The advance is due, in part, to the creation some years since of a committee on administrative agencies, which in the Presbyterian body has come to be not a body made up of ministers who are overwhelmed with work and look into outside things once a year or less, but men who can take the time necessary to study conditions and methods by which the work may be improved. The agency of this new administrative betterment committee.

BABY'S NEEDS

Subject of Impromptu Lecture To Young Mothers.

OLD-FASHIONED WOMAN EASES HER MIND.

ENJOYABLE D. A. R. CONVENTION AT FRANKFORT.

NO UNDIGNIFIED SQUABBLES.

(Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.)
Frankfort, Oct. 23.—Two young mothers sat in the station Saturday afternoon, waiting for the train to Louisville. It wasn't very long before every woman in the waiting-room was discussing babies and their special needs. "I see by the paper," said Mrs. Young Mother, "that cradles are coming back again."

Asks a Poss.

"Cradles coming back again," she sniffed. "Cradles coming back again—why, bless me! When did cradles go?"

As there was no answer from either of the young mothers—they looked as if they had been guilty of a heinous crime in owning those pink and white bundles and were not going to commit another by talking of what were the fashion in putting them to sleep.

Then that stiff-backed woman did a very womanly thing. She walked over and took little, scared mother's baby in her strong arms and talked the most delicious nonsense to that quivering piece of flannel and lace it has ever been my lot to listen to.

It would have taken a stenographer to take down all she said, and she never would have gotten it the way she said it. But her gibberish was so entertaining we all sat there and took in every word she said—no, we drank it in—it was so refreshing.

"Cradles coming back again," she cooed; "bless me—when did cradles go? Tell me that, little Miss Sleepyhead. Tell me what a man—a man of science knows about 'forty winks' and 'baby-land.' Science says they may, indeed! What is the role of mother for, pray, if she be not endowed with every thought for baby's need? What does science know about baby's ways and the Land of Nod that it tries to place in doubt the well-known paths of babyhood? Who but mother knows the poppy-lined street lies that leads to the cradle road, which such feet as your own have worn smooth?"

Leave the Babies Alone.

"There are too many 'lame' and 'olgies' now to interfere with such a subject. You can have the earth, and the sky, and the gases of the earth, and the rocks, and the steam, and flying ships and electricity, but for goodness sake leave the cradles and their occupants to the hand divinely taught."

The first thing we know some scientific gentlemen with 'specks' and a fast-retreating forehead at this spot on the top of a weathered head will be issuing an edict that when baby sticks up one corner of a foot and in language that is only comprehensible to the mother, bids her play 'This little pig went to market,' and when she has counted twelve and the twentieth time, and thinks the little rascal fast asleep, is told with another comprehensive 'umph' to count ten on the other foot, I say, the learned gentleman will pretty soon be telling mothers that there are five toes on each foot—and no more about this little pig went to market."

Then, as the train tottered above the tunnel, she held the baby to her heart and recited Elizabeth Browning's lines: "Women know the way to rear up children to be just. They know a simple mercy: Knack Of tying babies, fitting baby shoes. And stringing pretty words that make no sense. And kissing full sense into empty words. Which things are coals to our life upon."

When the train came in and everybody was hurrying and scrambling for baskets and bundles—for Saturday is a busy day in town, when one lives in the country—the baby was given back, and when the old woman left, she whispered into the little mother's ear: "Never mind about the cradles coming back—just have a good time with your baby; he won't be a baby very long."

Then the young mother whispered into the other mother's ear, and the thing she whispered was: "There were tears in her eyes." And the other mother looked back and said: "Umph, huh."

Never Dull in Frankfort.

Frankfort is still in the capsaic state, but things are never dull here—in the valley, where every body comes to see the new Capitol, the old Capitol and the State penitentiary and the cemetery.

Speaking of the cemetery reminds us that the historical old monument of Daniel Boone, which has been mutilated for many years, is being restored by Mr. Fetweis, of Cincinnati. Relic hunters practically ruined it.

Daniel Boone, on one of the panels, is seen sitting at his cabin door. His head was severed and his legs amputated. Likewise, the old hunter's noble wife, Rebecca. She was depicted milking the cow in the evening. The spoiler has taken both horns of the cow, not of the diadem, Rebecca's head is lost and the cow is suspended in midair, sans legs, sans horns, sans head.

This restoration of the Boone monument is being done under the direction of the State Historical Society and when finished will be one of the sights of the Capital City. An iron fence will be built around the monument.

D. A. R. Meeting.

At any rate, things were not dull in the old town Thursday and Friday, when the Daughters of the American Revolution met in convention at the Capital Hotel.

I wonder what those dead Revolutionary heroes would say if they were allowed to come back for a feeding glimpse into the convention and see what posterity is doing in their name? Would they wrap their winding sheet around them and sneak back to their narrow home or would they stand around in the corridors and make facetious remarks—as some of the present male generation did yesterday?

At any rate, these Daughters can buttonhole a candidate as well as the best of the politicians. If the cut of one's gown, the number of diamonds in one's tiara, or the length of one's family tree cut any figure at the convention it is very aptly done. These Daughters are elected on the personality of the candidate, and depends on whether she is just the proper person for the place.

Dignified Lobbying.

Of course there was lobbying—lots of it, and much wagging of tongues and shaking of heads, but these Daughters of Revolutionary stock were no more dignified and deliberative.

They may have scratched each other's eyes in the national meet, but this State body was the best dressed, the most intelligent and the least "coatty" of any feminine body it has been our good luck to see in session.

At the evening session on Thursday evening the State chapters were warmly welcomed by Mrs. Matthew Scott, of Bloomington, Ill., the president general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and she is the embodiment of all that is sweetly gracious and dignified. Although very tired from her trip, she made a most pleasing and witty address and was vociferously applauded. She was presented with a large bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums by the State regent, Mrs. C. D. Chenault, who has won the hearts of the delegates by her impartial chairmanship.

One of the Treats of the Day.

Mrs. Sallie Marshall Hardy, of Louisville, read an admirable address on Thursday evening which was one of the treats of the session. It was on the trial and pleasures of the vice president general of the organization. Mrs. Hardy treated this in delightful style and knew well how to combine pathos with wit, and her address was unanimously pronounced the gem of the day.

On Friday the Historical Society will visit the new Capitol and the historical rooms by invitation of Mrs. Jennie C. Morrow, and this will be of unusual interest to these daughters of revolutionary stock.

Country Club Dance.

One of the few diversions of the week was the Country Club dance. It might have been well named "a small and early," for there were not more than fifteen couples present, and the last car bound for the city at 11 o'clock found all aboard.

The big log fire and innumerable candles lent cheerfulness to the beautiful ballroom, which was decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums and ferns.

Mr. Prewett Graham and Miss Edith Posey led. There were many new faces present, and the "spiral staircase" and the "Minuet" were loudly applauded.

After the 10 o'clock intermission coffee and sandwiches were served on the glass-enclosed balcony.

Reception For Presbyterian Minister.

If I were studying for the ministry I certainly would try to get the orthodox Presbyterian belief fast into my cranium. Then I would never let a stone turned till I was "called" to Frankfort.

The Southern Presbyterian have impressed this on more than one here. Every time there is a new pastor called for any reason the "sister" and "brethren" of that church certainly give him a royal welcome. Last Saturday night they received not only their own congregation, but all the ministers and all the various congregations in the city.

The new pastor is the Rev. R. L. Cowan, of Augusta, Ky., and on Sunday he was properly installed as pastor of the handsome new edifice that has but recently been built.

The parlors of the church bloomed like roses with the beautiful decorations and an ice cream was served the visitors.

EXERCISE AND FOOD.

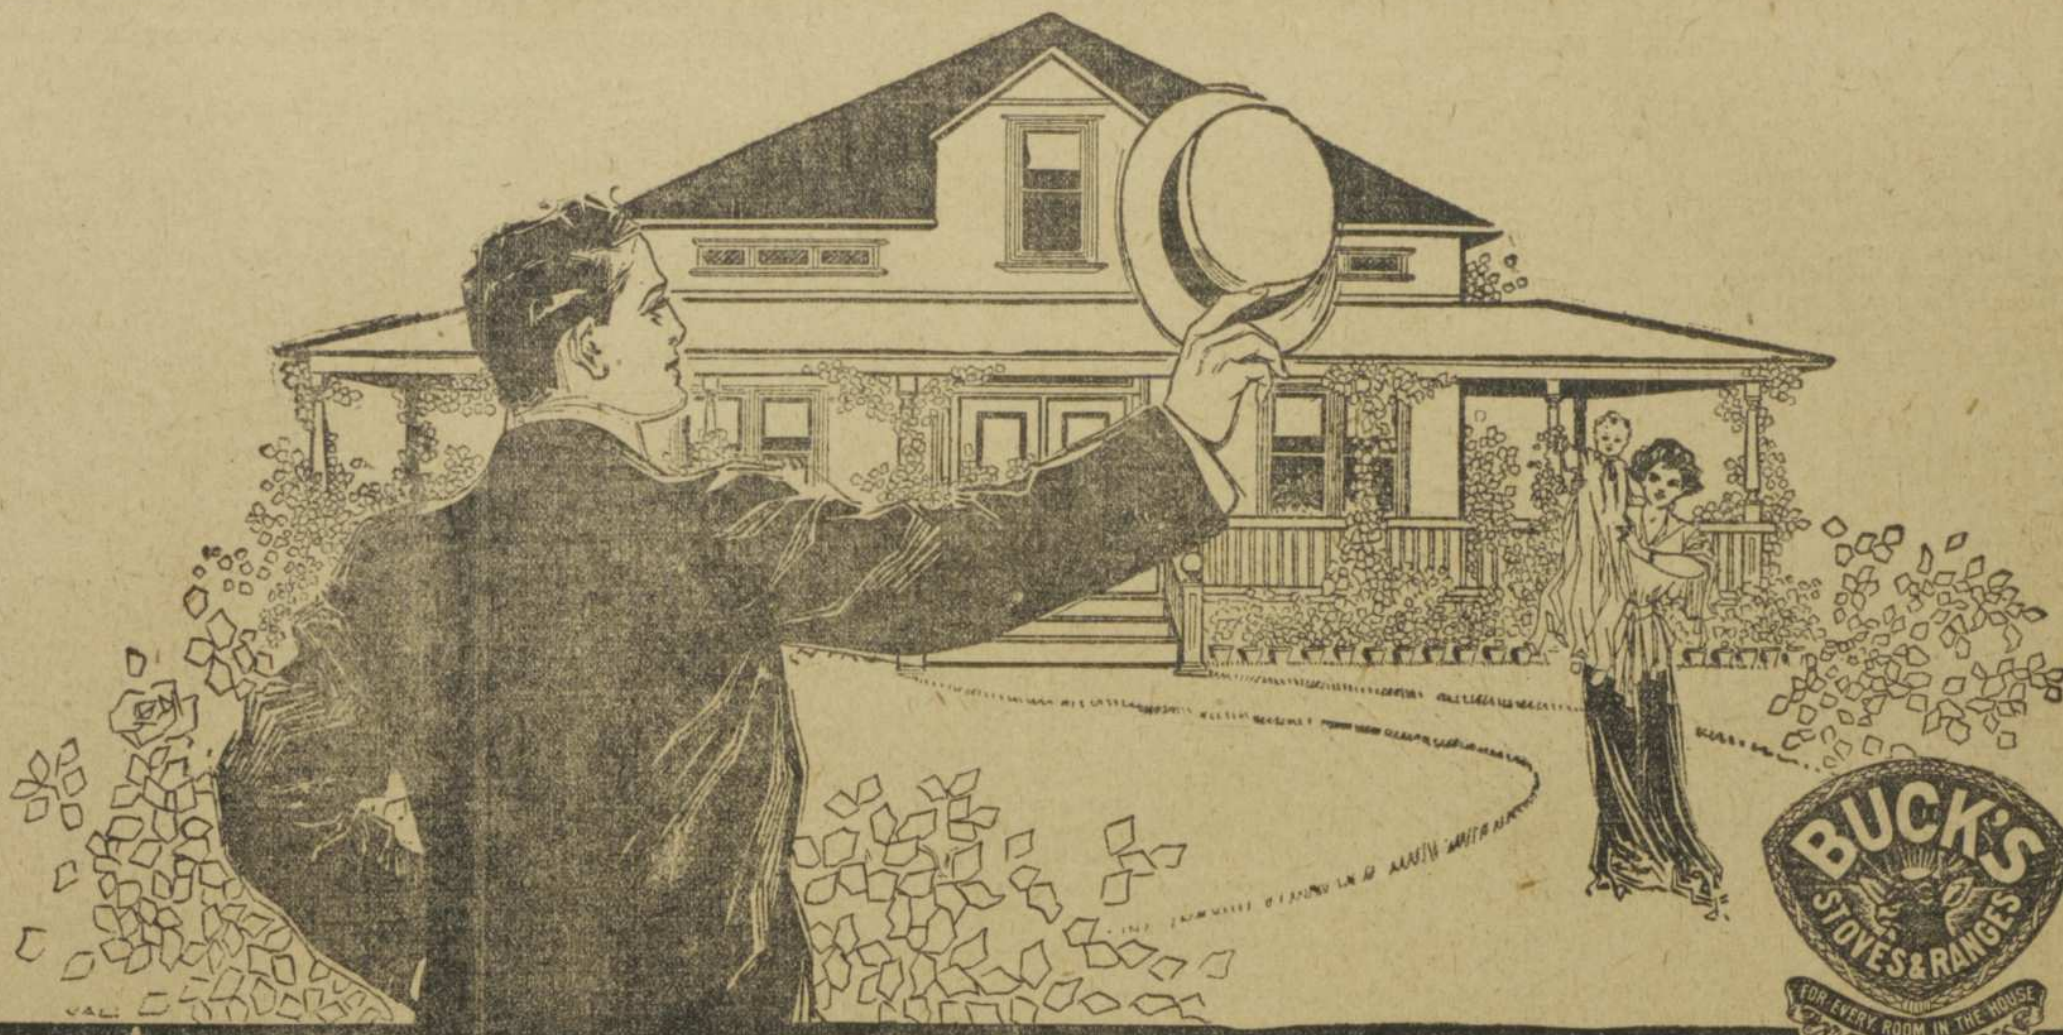

(Brooklyn Life.)

"What do you want?" demanded Mr. Newsway, as he confronted the tramp at the door of the bungalow; "breakfast or work?"

"Both, sir," replied the wayfarer, timidly.

"Well, eat that," returned the other sagaciously, handing out a biscuit and a piece of steak, "and you'll have both."

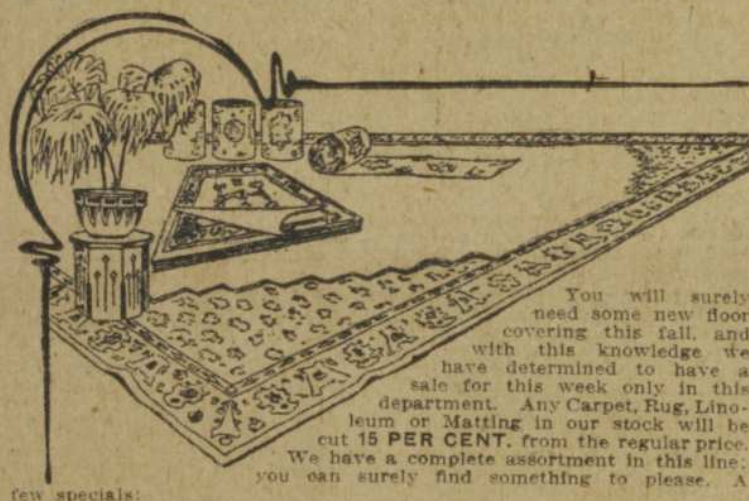

Whereupon Mrs. Newsway glanced reproachfully at her husband for he was giving away the first fruits of her culinary studies at the cooking school.

(Correspondence of the Courier-Journal)
Washington, Oct. 23.—The mistress of the White House is at home again, and society in Washington, from a technical point of view, has returned to its established basis. The queen consort, in residence, let the ball begin to roll, even though the flag that flutters from the palace roof when the President is in town, is at rest, pro tem. No stars and stripes may proclaim the presence of the President's wife at the national mansion. The distinction is reserved for the chief executive alone—a custom common to all countries.

It's only Queen Alexandra who has demanded of her royal lord who loathes a fuss—with an emphatic stamping of her pretty little foot—that the flag at Buckingham Palace shall wave when she herself is there, even though the King be in Kensington, or at the North Pole. And her spouse, the most amiable of men, who can sight a tannum a mile off, has meekly said, "Yes, Honey," and let his misss have her arbitrary way, in the face of precedent and immemorial tradition. Alexandra claims the same recognition as a reigning monarch. Women are scandalously bossy these days, and husbands, however high their estate, are half-seared to death all the time. They promise any old thing, for the sake of peace.

Ill-health Public Calamity.

Mrs. Taft's sustained ill-health is a public calamity, her breakdown on the very threshold of a social administration, that promised the distinction that characterized the regime of Dolley Madison and Mrs. Cleveland. A ruthless stroke of Fate, Washington's one great regret. Yet, there is many a wiseacre here, who shakes his head—though it usually is a her head—and says "I told you so."

Mrs. Taft was burning the candle at both ends. Ambitious, dominant, rich in resources, eager to make her reign a record-breaker, the lovely lady, unimpaired of physical limitations has been a reckless spendthrift in gray matter and nerve fibre. The reckoning had to come. After all, a woman is but a human being, even though she be a President's wife. Mrs. Taft's physician promises a complete re-establishment of her health eventually. But meanwhile court circles are in a dilemma, for a leader right away.

Her Amiable Predecessor.

Mrs. Taft's amiable predecessor, content with less prestige and glory, basked happily in the light reflected from her all-consuming husband. Mrs. Roosevelt, unlike Mrs. Taft, had no ambition to establish her own self personally. She let her own individuality in advance. Mrs. Roosevelt could run things. Her official job was only to smile and smile, and be Johnny-on-the-spot whenever she was needed. Hence, through all the seven years of her husband's presidential incumbency, she was never absent from his side on any State occasion. She never squandered her vitality. Her much-criticized dependence upon her social secretary, existing that estimable young lady to a position of utmost prominence and responsibility, has been justified by the result of Mrs. Taft's pursuing a contrary course, and endeavoring to cover all the ground unaided. Mrs. Taft's secretary occupies only a strictly official and technical position. She does not appear socially at the White House. Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary was the power behind the throne, before whom social climbers trembled. She was the arbiter of many a fate.

Mrs. Taft entered upon her reign by bestowing some minute personal attention upon every minutiae of domestic, official and social life, creating upheavals and innovations in many departments. The personnel of the laundry, the livery of her servants, the laying out of parks and pleasure drives for the benefit of the public—matters other details, all came under the eager supervision of this capable woman. She never relaxed. She inspired her husband to be President, and as presidential consort her position has been authoritative and active and full of initiative.

Source of Universal Regret.

That this dominantly endowed lady, regnant should be forced very possibly to retire throughout the forthcoming social season that promised unprecedented brilliancy, and that her state duties should be performed by an understudy, is a source of universal regret. Mrs. Taft, like the Roosevelts, started out prolific in hospitalities. To be invited unofficially to the White House is always a passport of prestige. Mrs. Taft's private, home affairs were always delightful.

But this winter the festivities at the Executive Mansion will doubtless be reduced to the mere state and official programme. The affairs will likely be hampered with the co-ordinating Hamlet left out, generally. And Mrs. Taft, with her quick invention, had mapped out such a brilliant and distinctive campaign for the next few months.

And who will reign in her stead when the exigencies of court etiquette demand that the President shall have a feminine conductor on exhausting state occasions? Miss Helen Taft, just 17, who has a poise and dignity far beyond her years and the physique of a mature woman—she stands five feet eight and weighs amply—would be the logical successor to her invalid mother. But Miss Helen is in the schoolroom with her capable young mind absorbed in books. Conjecture runs to Mrs. Charles Taft, to Mrs. Lewis Moore, Mrs. Taft's sister and constant companion since the reigning lady's nervous breakdown last spring, with a few wild speculations even directed toward Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth as a possibility. The last, of course, is obviously absurd.

May Fall Upon Mrs. Knox.

If Mrs. Taft continues unequal to the social strain of her position this winter, the ranking Cabinet lady will, in all likelihood, fill the breach at official functions. Mrs. Knox, wife of the Secretary of State, is a minute specimen of woman—just a tiny mite of a thing, yet she is capable and most cordial. Mrs. Knox, unfortunately, is a little deaf. Washington was gratified to see Mrs. Taft at church Sunday, and as the play next day. She is much improved in health since she left town last summer. Wives of great men all remind us, especially when they are women of instant personality and charm, and especially again when their field of action is here, in fervid, feverish Washington, that all flesh is grass, and that human endurance can only in a few cases keep abreast of human effort and ambition. Washington, with its endless whirl, is the city of the pace that kills. Only cast-iron constitutions and ball-bearing,

FOR KENTUCKIANS.

A Brilliant Entertainment Given in Atlanta By Mr. and Mrs. John K. Otley.

THE Kentuckians who have been attending the Horse Show in Atlanta the past week have been charmingly entertained, one of the most brilliant parties being that given by Mr. and Mrs. John K. Otley.

The Atlanta Constitution says: "A brilliant party at the club was that at which Mr. John K. Otley, chairman of the executive committee of the Horse Show Association, and Mrs. Otley entertained in honor of visiting guests, including Mr. Richard Tasker Lewis, of Danville, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. John McHenry, Louisville, Mr. Alfred Gwynn Vanderbilt, Mr. Samuel A. Culbertson, Mr. Richard T. McGrath, Mr. Akers, of Louisville, and Mrs. Walter Douglas Lamar.

Invited to meet them were Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Moxley, Dr. and Mrs. Elkin, Mr. and Mrs. James N. Nunnally, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hume, Mrs. Florence Coleman, of Macon; Miss Jennie English, Miss Ima Dooly, Mrs. Brooke Morgan, Mr. Frederick J. Paxson, Lieut. Cyrus Miller, U. S. A., and Mrs. J. H. Miller. At each end of the table were silver loving cups filled with red and white roses, and the candles had red shades, and the place cards were designed in horses of red, white and gold.

Extraordinary Special Purchase and Important Sale of 350 Tailored Suits and Dresses

In the New Models, Materials, Trimmings, Etc.

$20, $25 and $30 Values On Sale To-morrow $15

To think of offering a High-class Tailored Suit or Dress for fall or winter, in the very latest models and materials, at about half the usual price, seems odd at this season of the year, but it is nevertheless true.

HERE ARE THE DETAILS—The great buying scope of this organization was splendidly demonstrated the past week when the proposition of one of New York's highest-class makers of women's (man-tailored) garments, to close out his entire stock of fall and winter garments at a very low price, was presented and accepted. Now, this store's allotment of this large underpriced special purchase amounts to about 350 Tailored Suits and Dresses in the very latest autumn models, materials and trimmings, and as the purchase price was about the actual cost of the materials, they will be offered to you Monday at the same ratio of saving.

More elegant styles, better materials than elsewhere even at an additional cost of $10 to $15, and equally as high-grade tailoring as is to be found in the finest made-to-order suits, costing $30 to $75. THE THREE MODELS ILLUSTRATED were taken from our enormous selection of suits. They are made of the finest quality of imported worsteds and broadcloths, in the rare new autumn shades. The tailoring and everything about them is of the very HIGHEST CHARACTER. Do you think that suits-to-order can be MADE TO COMPARE WITH THESE at anywhere near our prices? If you do, you will be GREATLY SURPRISED when you look through our showing and see how much more satisfactorily we can serve you and how much we can save you in the cost, as well as time and trouble. When you purchase a suit here there is NO UNCERTAINTY ABOUT ITS FITTING PERFECTLY, for if there is any doubt about it we don't ask you to accept it. The responsibility rests with us and we guarantee satisfaction. Without "beating around the bush," we emphatically state that we are "head and shoulders" above and beyond all competition regarding values—DOES IT NOT STAND TO REASON that when forty-two fashionable establishments, located from "Maine to the Coast and the Lakes to the Gulf," jointly unite their combined purchasing power—WHAT "SHOW" HAS THE INDIVIDUAL BUYER, compared to this combination? This explains clearly our position, a "Gibraltar of strength" that no reasonable competition can overcome. These illustrations represent three of our popular costumes. When you see a picture in our ad, it means something—fac-simile of one of our garments, or drawn by our own artist, always descriptive of our actual garments—No fairy tales or pictures to "tickle the fancy"—Therefore, what you see in our ads—"WE HAVE."

Introducing Some Very Exclusive Novelties in Superb Sample Suits

Ladies who wear the best and frequent the fashionable shops will appreciate this tempting collection of HIGH-CLASS SAMPLE SUITS—Only one of a kind—Exclusive models characterized by that perfection of tailoring that appeals to particular women.

Nothing Too Fine or Pretty For the Baby

Nothing is too good or too pretty for a mother shopping for her baby or little tot. The other day a woman came to this store to get a bonnet for her little one. There is such a variety that she could not make up her mind which one she wanted. Finally she said: "I will think about it," and went away. At about 5 o'clock she came back. "Well," she said, "I wanted to see what I could do at other stores. Now I am satisfied, and here I am, to get what I think is the prettiest little bonnet in the city for my baby." We can suit you equally as well in wear for infants, and the prices are easy.

RAILROAD FARES REFUNDED ACCORDING TO THE PLAN OF THE R. M. A.

In But Eight Years' Time Ogden Armour Has Won Recognition of Wall-Street Leaders

MRS. J. OGDEN ARMOUR AND HER DAUGHTER, LOLITA

ral of Missouri. For a time general counsel for the Armour, Mr. Krauthoff has established himself in the metropolitan Chicago as a general counsel and adviser for the Armour. He has been one of the targets Mr. Armour is now undertaking.

Lieut. Samuel McRoberts.

Working in the same building as Mr. Krauthoff is another of the Armour cabinet, Samuel McRoberts. This young man—the youngest of all Mr. Armour's advisers—has been especially favored of Mr. Armour, whose influence with the directors of the company has been the chief cause of his $300,000,000, recently led to their election of Mr. McRoberts as vice president.

Before he took this position he was the Armour treasurer. He was also president of the Chicago Freight Transfer Trust, in which Mr. Armour is now the chief shareholder. He was a man in his grave. It was Mr. McRoberts, who has a legal training, who was the chief cause of the Armour's Government in its recent suit against the Armours as a part of the Armour Trust. As treasurer of the Armour company Mr. McRoberts assisted materially in the financing and marketing of some thirty millions of securities, which were sold at a profit of millions. And he is still on the sunny side of the street.

Born in Missouri, of sturdy Scotch parentage, Mr. McRoberts is practically a self-made man, as are most of the Armour associates, and, in contrast to his chief, also Mr. Krauthoff, is a Scotch Presbyterian.

Roberts has a college education, while Mr. Armour was taken out of college by his father and placed in the work-by his father and placed in the paving business. But while at college McRoberts did not keep his books constantly in his head. He took a healthy part in athletics, and, in fact, was the student who introduced football at Washburn College, Topeka, Kan. Later on, when he had begun to make his place in the world, Mr. McRoberts, recalling his football days, and especially the difficulty the students had in getting proper instructions, sent a coach down to Washburn—a loyal act that is talked about to this day on the college campus. In fact, the coach the "Sam" McRoberts sent has become a sort of college tradition.

lege. He began with them in Kansas City in a lowly position; step by step he made his way up to the treasury of the company, and here, coming directly under the eye of J. Ogden Armour, got such an opportunity to "make good" as seldom comes to any man.

He was installed as treasurer almost as perfunctory as Mr. Harriman made such a selection. "I was not asked," Mr. Armour showed him the treasurer's office. "I want you to sit at that desk," he said. Later on, when Mr. Armour announced to his treasurer that he was to be chosen a director of the Continental National Bank of Chicago—"the Armour bank," Mr. McRoberts replied, "I am not sure of two things." Still later on, when Mr. McRoberts knew that he was picked to be "the Armour representative" in the National City Bank of New York, he showed another side of his character when he

Of the late E. H. Harriman, Mr. McRoberts was an ardent admirer, having splendid chances to study the man in person. He was in New York to meet to talk over the Chicago freight tunnel project. When a friend of the writer asked Mr. McRoberts to give him a story of Mr. Harriman, he was stalling up in one short sentence: "The most useful man that I ever

It is said by some of those who are close to the Armour plans that as vice president of the National Live Stock Mr. McRoberts will take a "rough" trip, including the Argentine and operations in the Argentine public, where ultimately the Armour investments will involve hundreds of millions of dollars, that the Armour packing-houses of our great Middle West may be kept in brief.

Armour showed him the treasurer's office. "I want you to sit at that desk," he said. Later on, when Mr. Armour announced to his treasurer that he was going to resign his directorship of the Mental National Bank of Chicago—"the Armour bank"—Mr. McRoberts' reply consisted of two words: "All right." Still later on, when Mr. McRoberts kindly informed him that he was going to resign his directorship of the "Mental National Bank of New York," he showed another side of his character when he traveled down to Missouri to talk over the proffered offer with his father.

When finding out since he landed there, he was met by his great-grandfather, a young man with whom he has been associated—gentle, easy to see and to get on with, and who has been his recreation by telling and listening to good stories. New York is beginning to be a little more like Chicago.

Of the late E. H. Harriman, Mr. McRoberts was an ardent admirer, having known him for many years, and whenever they two and Mr. Armour met to talk over the Chicago freight rates, Mr. McRoberts was always the writer asked by Mr. McRoberts to give his estimate of Mr. Harriman, the sum of which was always the same—“The most useful man that I ever knew.”

It is said by some of those who are close to the Armour plans that as vice president of the Chicago and North Western, Mr. McRoberts will take an active part in directing the Armour financial operations, and that the new corporation, where ultimately the Armour investments will involve hundreds of millions of dollars, will have its headquarters at the house of our great Middle West man to be kept in brief.

WESTERN KENTUCKY NORMAL TO HAVE FINE EQUIPMENT.

FOLLOWING the purchase of 162½ acres of land, including the Potter College grounds and buildings, at Bowling Green, for the future home of the Western Kentucky State Normal School, plans for the institution have been completed and the central part of the new Vanmeter hall and administration building are now being constructed. It is expected that this building will be ready for occupancy next May 1.

The grounds of the Normal School are located west of Bowling Green, facing College street. Some fifteen acres of the site have an elevation of 300 feet above the boat landing two miles distant, and are about 125 feet above sea level of the public square. The proposed chain of buildings is to be located on this elevation.

The board of regents selected Capt. Brinton E. Davis, of Louisville, as building architect, and a Kansas City, Mo., firm as landscape architects for the institution. These architects, with the aid of the regents, president and faculty of the school, have worked out a comprehensive plan for buildings and grounds. In addition to the Vanmeter Hall and Administration building, a manual training building, a gymnasium, boys' boarding house, military department, girls' boarding house, model training school, science hall, library, a residence for the superintendent of grounds, and an athletic field, are provided for. A little distance apart from the other buildings will be the contemplated agricultural experiment station and the lighting, heating and power plant.

During the first seven months of its history, from January 23, 1907, to July 30, 1907, the Western Normal enrolled 329 students; during the next scholastic year it had 1,024 students; and during the following year 1,140. This makes an aggregate enrollment of 2,526 students in a little more than two and one-half years. The enrollment for the first weeks of the present fall session is 20 per cent. larger than it was for the first weeks of the fall session last year. It is estimated that the annual enrollment for the present scholastic year will reach 1,400.

Out of the 1,140 students enrolled in the Western Normal during the last scholastic year, 399 were appointees from Western Kentucky, who signed, in order to secure free instruction, a declaration expressing their purpose to teach in Kentucky. All students who did not agree to teach in Kentucky paid regular tuition. Under the law all students from other States pay regular tuition. A conservative estimate shows that 190,000 different children of Kentucky have been taught or are now being taught by the student-teachers who attended the Western Normal since it was formally launched as a State institution on January 23, 1907. Fully 85 per cent. of these children live in the rural districts of Kentucky.

For the year ended January 1, 1908, there were 189 public normal schools in the United States reporting to the national Bureau of Education. The total number of students enrolled was 64,966, making an average attendance of 329 for each institution. The Western Kentucky State Normal School has a larger attendance than 184 of the 189 public normal schools reporting to the national Bureau of Education. There are but five normal schools in the United States that enroll more students annually than the Western Kentucky Normal School. Indiana Normal at Terre Haute enrolled in 1907-08 1,278 students; the Cedar Falls (Iowa) Normal enrolled 2,478; the Ypsilanti (Michigan) Normal enrolled 2,693; the Warrensburg (Missouri) State Normal enrolled 1,518; the Emporia (Kansas) Normal enrolled 1,876. The Western Kentucky State Normal enrolled 1,140 during the year 1908-09. The five schools named have been established for many years. Kentucky Normal, it is true, had the advantage when it was started of the attendance of the Southern Normal School, a private institution which it succeeded. Even bearing that in mind, it is contended, the attendance record has been remarkable.

While President H. H. Cherry thinks that his institution has been liberally treated by the State in a financial way, the average of appropriations in other States is considerably above that for Kentucky. The total amount appropriated during the year 1907-08 for the instruction of the 64,966 public normal students in the United States was $4,640,996, making an average annual cost, based on the income for maintenance, not including cost of buildings and grounds, of $72.44 per student. It cost the State of Kentucky only $43.86 each to instruct the 1,140 students who attended the Western Kentucky State Normal School last year. The average valuation of the buildings, grounds, etc., of the five institutions in other States is not only low, but for decades to come. They are putting every dollar into a new plant that will, when completed, have economy, convenience, harmony and sanitation, and one that will reflect the patriotism of Kentucky and inspire future General Assemblies.

The inauguration of a liberal educational policy in Kentucky is a statesmanship that will reflect the far-sighted wisdom of the last two General Assemblies. Every dollar appropriated will be transmuted into life, into ideals, into freedom, and into a new and greater Commonwealth. Every dollar will take wings and fly as a messenger of peace into Kentucky homes.

"Let us cherish the hope that Kentucky will continue this aggressive policy until every child in Kentucky shall enjoy educational opportunities equal to those enjoyed by the children of the most advanced educational commonwealths in the nation.

The Western Kentucky State Normal School belongs to the people of Kentucky. It is a human stock company. The people are the stockholders. Its dividends go to all the people of the State and all its taxpayers contribute to its support. The normal schools were established and are maintained in the interest of intellectual, spiritual, physical and industrial thrift. They were established and are maintained primarily for the preparation of young people for the teaching profession of Kentucky. Of course, the normal school is not the exclusive agent for the training of the teachers, but it is the State's chief agent and as such it must build up the profession, establish the new standard, create the ideal, send out the men and women whose call is to educational leadership.

WHERE WOMEN WERE BARRED FOR 1,000 YEARS

(Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.)

GRENOBLE, France, Oct. 5.—On a dizzy Alpine height there is a vast deserted palace. In a chaos of gigantic rocks, a wilderness of lightning-blazed pines, above the clouds, its pointed towers swing in a silent sky.

For 1,000 years no woman was permitted to set foot inside this vast and lonely place, with its 40,000 square yards of roofs, covering twelve acres.

For 900 years the entire territory was forbidden even the approach of women—embodiment of the vanities of the world which the great men inhabiting the palace of the Alps had fled.

They were great men. Among them, in all ages, could be found illustrious names of Europe, princes, statesmen, warriors, dead to all human conversation—the aristocratic fathers of the Grande Chartreuse.

They were waited on by other women—deafening anchorites, stern mountaineers with who knows what grief in their hearts? These brothers served the mountain domain as wood-choppers, farmers, tailors, weavers, cooks, distillers, carpenters, masons, bookbinders, and if a peasant girl, in search of mushrooms or wood strawberries, negligently wandered up those mountain sides, she found her way barred by a silent figure she had once known, perhaps, now lost to her world, a denizen of the great silent palace up there.

The curiosity of women in all ages has been stirred by the Grande Chartreuse, above all other monasteries. The French Revolution, by confiscating the Desert and surrounding forests as State property, technically opened the territory to women.

The curiosity of women in all ages has been stirred by the Grande Chartreuse, above all other monasteries. The French Revolution, by confiscating the Desert and surrounding forests as State property, technically opened the territory to women.

They were waited on by other women—deafening anchorites, stern mountaineers with who knows what grief in their hearts? These brothers served the mountain domain as wood-choppers, farmers, tailors, weavers, cooks, distillers, carpenters, masons, bookbinders, and if a peasant girl, in search of mushrooms or wood strawberries, negligently wandered up those mountain sides, she found her way barred by a silent figure she had once known, perhaps, now lost to her world, a denizen of the great silent palace up there.

THE GRANDE CHARTREUSE.

In his solitary garden he raised vegetables. In his rooms he read and wrote. His meals were handed in to him. If he wanted books from the magnificent library, he wrote their titles on a bit of paper.

His life passed, solitary, silent—in a great and rich community. He never ate meat. He rose at 5:30 a. m. He glided silent through the corridors to church at 6 a. m. for "prime," at 8 a. m. for "terce," at 10 a. m. for "sext," at 11 a. m. for "none" and at 2:45 p. m. for vespers. At 6 p. m. it was "compline" in his cell; and he went to bed at 8:30 p. m. At 11 p. m. he got up for "matins" and at midnight went to the church for "matins and lauds." These lasted till 2 a. m.—when he went back to bed. The only break in this routine were Sunday meals in common—without conversation and a walk through the mountains in procession once a week.

Men visitors who got up in the middle of the night to see the weird procession to the church never got over the impression. It was like seeing dead men waiting at midnight for matins and lauds, all white-clad in the darkness, each monk carrying an ancient iron lantern.

So, when women heard about the awful sight, they wanted to see it. From the earliest days there are tales of daring disguises by which obstinate fair ones sought to slip in, unperceived, beside weak, hen-pecked or merely amused husbands, brothers, fathers, uncles or cousins.

Bernhardt Broke Rule.

Madame Sarah Bernhardt is said to be one of the few women of modern times to successfully pass scrutiny and spend an entire night at the Grande Chartreuse. It was at the time when she was excessively slender, not to say anorectic, and she had the wit to make up her face as a pale, emaciated and wrinkled old university professor in gold spectacles. She wore a rusty black frock-coat and slouch hat in midsummer; took her supper in silence; and kept her nose in a Latin book. So she said the terrible procession of white figures flung into the vast black church at midnight amid the dancing flames of their iron lanterns. She never tired of telling how it was the most shocking stage-setting of her experience.

Nowadays the Grande Chartreuse is an empty shell.

Batches of fifty tourists at a time wander all day down the best vista of the Grand Cloister, hoary with antiquity; French families and foreign tourists, the noisy and the dreamers.

The highway up the mountain is dusty, hot and noisy; a babel of voices, clanging bells, honking automobiles, barking dogs, crackling whips and shouting drivers. Swift auto pass in a cloud of dust and impressions. It is a steep climb.

Inside the deserted palace, the parties chatter through the empty library. The monks are all in the refectory, the guide tells. "These were the Fathers' gardens," he continues as he leads on. "This one was raising onions and lettuce," remarks an observant tourist. "Here are the cells."

We go through them, the dusty, opening closets, snooping into corners, to discover something. There is nothing to discover. They are cold and empty rooms. Their mystery is gone.

We go out into the sunlight rather thoughtful and depressed. After all, it was well to run the Chartreuse out of its majestic home of 1,000 years' standing, bells, automobiles, barking dogs and shouting drivers. The monks' shrines and hundreds of hamlets on the way up there is said to be grinding poverty in winter. The rich Fathers were immensely charitable.

They could afford to be charitable. They had their Chartreuse liquor, "Which will you have, yellow or green?" is the head guide, inviting us to take one—the last vintage before the advent of the new year.

Lord Montford's Suicide.

Next morning Lord Montford sent for witnesses and a lawyer and had his will drawn up. He then asked the limb of the law if a man shot himself would his will hold good. On being informed that it would Lord Montford told the lawyer to wait a while, and stopping in the next room, shot himself.

Sir John Bland, the second party in the famous wager, shot himself in September of that same year on the road from Paris to Calais. According to the history of the club, Lord Lincoln made the following comment on the death of Lord Montford: "Well, I am very sorry for poor Lord Montford, but it is the part of every wise man to make the best of every misfortune. I shall now have the best cook in England." He was forestalled by the new Lord Montford, who retained the services of Jorax, the chef in question.

put our gratuities into his outstretched hand. He put them into the safe and down bottles. Green or yellow? We sip, smack our lips. It is still made at the Grande Chartreuse," as the label guarantees.

It is the Chartreuse of the liquidators. You have doubtless heard, echoes of those legends in France and foreign countries. The French government has sold the mark to a Paris distiller with the right to use the old label, but as Fournier—as much as he pleases. As to how much he uses it—here, it is almost a political question.

In foreign lands, however, he may not sell it as Chartreuse. The Fathers, enshrined in Tarascon, have kept the mark before the courts, outside of France.

Book Tells of Odd Wagers of the Past

Undoubtedly, the most notorious record of its kind in the world is White's of London, Eng., for 200 years the headquarters of those who bet on the outcome of the game of chance, says the New York Sun. The betting book at White's is a most interesting volume, for it contains a record of all the wagers made there for nearly two centuries, and there is a great variety, mainly the offspring of the great variety of the game of chance, says the New York Sun.

Lord Montford supplied the first of the tragedies by committing suicide on the 15th of August, 1815, after having spent the last of his fortune. He had squandered a vast amount of money, extravagantly, but the worst blow came when two of his greatest friends—Lord Gage and Lord Albemarle—died on the same day. It was the general opinion that he paid Lord Montford an annuity, but anyway he became more reckless than ever, for he even went so far as to stake his life shut the Duke of Newcastle would secure him a Government appointment. He wanted to be master of the royal household or else Governor of Virginia, and in both jobs he was disappointed. The blow was severe, and immediately Lord Montford resorted to the only method of self-destruction. Augustus Thomas Writes Psychological Drama

In "The Harvest Moon" He Discusses "Negative Suggestion"—A Real Melodrama On Broadway—Patterson Changes "Fourth Estate."

(Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—New dramas by Augustus Thomas and Henry D. Carey are different quite. The titles indicate the dissimilarity. "The Harvest Moon" is psychological play. "Two Women and That Man" is a physical play. Thomas' earlier plays were of the latter type, and his later ones of the former. It came to be said that he didn't delineate femininity because he couldn't. Well, no moon ever shone with more softly than his pen on a stage heroine than this harvest orb of night does on Adelaide Nowak. That is the actress' name, and I like to use it instead of the heroine's because Adelaide is a real girl, not beautiful, but with hands and feet, elbows and knees and charming lack of the easy grace which she will gain with practice. Her own crudest scenes for what would require much skill in a sophisticated artist, for the play says she is not so well versed at the world. Adelaide may work her way to fame. LONDON, Oct. 22.—I read in the last number of the New York Dramatic Mirror, just to hand, of "the triumph of 'The Great Divide'" at the Adelphi Theatre. Alas! the triumph is to be short-lived, for, I regret to say, this piece never really caught the fancy of the public and already arrangements are made to replace it, as soon as rehearsal permit, with Hann Kennedy's "The Servant in the House."

TREATISE ON POTATOES

The potato crop, as shown by

In the general farming of the Northern States as a whole in point of cash returns to the acre, the potato not only thrives best in the cool climate of these States, but at the same time is very productive where the climate almost everywhere is favorable. In the States where Northern States where live-stock farming predominates, the potato is likely to be the one crop grown to sell, all the other crops being fed to stock.

In many localities in these Northern States the potatoes are assumed to be near the place of production, but through those States as a whole the crop is grown in such quantities as to Evidently, under the belief that a bullet-proof vest would be a sure life preserver against hold-up men and bank robbers who are handy with firearms, John J. Butler, cashier of the Farmers' National Bank, St. Louis, Mo., was taken to the Chief Greasy asking where such a waistcoat could be obtained.

Butler, who is a well known receiver in response will tell him that the local police officers do not place any faith in bullet-proof vests, and that he had never seen his communication Butler said he understood such a vest was exhibited at the St. Louis exposition.

Chief Greasy turned the letter over to Capt. Young, who said he would leave it to the St. Louis police to find the crack shot of the department.

Butler was a "bullet-proof" vest exhibited here during the exhibition," said Sears. "It was the invention of a Chicago collector of curiosities, and it was sold. We tested it over sacks of sawdust."

ARMED NEGRO THREATENS CAR EMPLOYEES.

Terrorizes and Intimidates Passengers, and Motorman Compelled To Use Control Lever.

Without provocation a strange negro boarded east-bound Jefferson street car No. 852 at 11:40 o'clock last night and, accompanied by loud swearing, threatened the life of Thomas Noon, the conductor. The negro was ordered off the car three times, when it became necessary for C. W. Bowles, the motorman, to use force to make the negro leave the car. Half a dozen passengers on the rear platform were apparently afraid to do anything or say anything, for the negro kept his hand at his hip pocket in a threatening attitude.

forman, Bowles stopped his car and came to the rear platform. Then, according to Conductor Noon, Bowles struck the negro across the head with a telephone pole. He then jumped into the car. After the negro had been put off the car the street car employees thought they had seen him for the last time. The street crossing at the rear of the street car was delayed for several minutes, and at Hamilton avenue Conductor Noon saw the negro standing with a telephone pole with a sharp end in his hand. The car continued on its way and the negro made no effort to use the weapon. Conductor Noon says that he was traveling from the rear of the street to Hamilton avenue not a "reform" policeman was in sight.

The negro was apparently about 24 years of age, five feet eight inches in height, and wore a cap and a gray suit of clothes.

HAS WRITTEN TEXT BOOKS.

The child's training was begun with a set of alphabetical blocks when he was a little over a year old. When his young son, sitting on the nursery floor, said "ba ba," Dr. Sidis took two of these blocks, denoting A and B respectively, held them before his eyes, and showed him first, the "B" block and then the "A" block.

Studied the Calendar.

Before he was 2½ years old precocious William James would sit on the floor in the midst of his blocks and spell out various words. This was his way of playing. This child was next taught to count. Then, because he wanted the child to know something about the idea of time, Dr. Sidis gave him some calendars, explaining to him the meanings of them. For weeks he played with

One day he startled his parents by announcing that he was able to tell on what day of the week any given date would fall. It was first thought that in his play with the calendars he had memorized some of the dates. Upon investigation, however, it was found that he had worked out all by himself a method of counting, enabling him mentally to calculate any date demanded of him.

When William James (or "Jimmy") was 3½ years old he could use the typewriter, and at 4 he was an expert operator. He was also much interested in fairy stories, learned them by heart, and was soon studying elocution and learning how to recite them to the best advantage.

By the time he was 5 years old he was not only able to read, write and speak English and to use a typewriter, but he was also able to read and write in Latin. He began to study French and Latin, and had written a textbook on anatomy and another on English grammar—presumably for his own use.

Entering a grammar school when 6 years old, he moved up several grades in six months and was in the eighth grade in his school at 8 years. In six weeks there he had completed the mathematical course and begun writing a book on the subject. He was then taken into the study of German, French, Latin and Russian.

On leaving school he began the study of differential and integral calculus, \int and $\frac{d}{dx}$ in real earnest. \int Integral and infinitesimal calculus became

FUN AT THE TABLE.

It is astonishing how many of us have not studied the subject thoughtfully to learn how completely under the control of the emotions, the entire digestive apparatus is placed.

It is a matter of everyday experience that the appetite is under the subordination of the emotions, and that the will. The impulse to celebrate any good success, or to indulge in any pleasure, first, that when one is pleased and elated hunger is excited. In early times the hunter, when he had secured his prey, just as the accompanying thirst too often follows the drinking of a very hard day, here, by eating to a suitable occasion.

The loss of appetite caused by bad news or sorrowful events of any kind is well known to need more than mention. Worry or physical suffering also destroy the appetite. The same causes that destroy the appetite will arrest or greatly retard the action of the digestive organs, and of common experience that any disagree-

Every member of the family should be taught to eat with moderation, and all thoughts of business or study aside for the moment and to come to the table with a light and cheerful attitude. This is not only as a moral duty, but also as a practical one, for it is true that his appetite will be better and his food will taste better and will be better assimilated.

In this connection it goes without saying that any disagreeable matters should never be the companion of the morning meal, because a day started with a bad mood is a very hard day, and is bound to be a failure straight out.

It has been discovered by the Chinese Ministry of Civil Office that there are some 500,000 cases of degenerative diseases in the country, and that the persons who are entitled to reinstatement by special grace on the occasion of the new reign.

ONLY A FEW BALL-RECORDS ARE BROKEN

Brilliant Plays Are Plentiful, But Not Many of the Old Marks Are Equalled During the Season.

W HILE there were many sensational games and numerous brilliant plays made by the teams in both major leagues in the season which has just ended, it is, nevertheless, a fact that in only one or two instances were records which had been established in previous years equalled. Great pitching, terrific batting and fine baserunning featured throughout the season in both the National and American Leagues, but when it came to record smashing the players in most cases fell short by a small margin.

A glance over the work of the pitchers in both organizations shows that not a twirler pitched a no-hit game. In past seasons there were always one or two such contests played in either one league or the other, but the best any could do this year was to let an opposing team down with one safety. Of these there were seventeen all told, eleven in the National and six in the American. Of the eleven times that the feat was accomplished in the older organization, three were by Pirates' Camnitz turning the trick twice and Willis once. Three Chicago pitchers got into the one-hit class, Miner Brown leading two such contests. Ames, of New York, did not allow Brooklyn a hit during the first nine innings of a fourteen-inning game on April 10. No pitcher in the American was able to repeat the performance.

The record for leading bases on balls is held by Eddie Karger, the former Cincinnati pitcher, who is now with the Boston Red Sox. Karger walked twelve men in a game at Boston, but strangely enough the Red Sox won out. Since then several pitchers have given ten free passes in the National.

No player was able to equal the record made by Clarence Bassant in 1907, that of getting six hits in a single game, although five hits were made by six players, Eddie Grant, of the Philadelphia Nationals, turning the trick twice. Of the four that accomplished the feat in the National League, two were Pirates—Clark and Wagner.

The longest game played during the season was that between Detroit and Washington in the American League, when they battled for eighteen innings to a 9-0 score at Detroit. In the National League, New York and Boston went seventeen innings in a single game by one player, the Pirates engaged in one with Brooklyn in a 3-2 tie, the longest game in the history of the league. DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 22.—Manager Hugh Jennings, of the Detroit American League baseball club, today signed a contract to continue the management of the club during the season of 1910. The terms of the contract were not disclosed, but it is understood that Jennings' demand for an increase in salary was compromised. Pitcher George Mullin and Catcher Schmidt have also signed contracts for next season, and Tyrus Cobb signed today for three years.

JOE MILLER'S "WIT."

(Chicago News.)
Joe Miller, who is generally believed to have been the soul of wit, never made a single joke in his life. He was an actor and so grave in manner as to become the butt of other people's hilarity. When any witicism went the round Miller was accused of its authorship, and he would never deny it. He lived an exemplary life and died universally respected. But no sooner was he dead than appeared "Joe Miller's Jest," or "The Wit of Joe Miller," compiled by "Elijah Jenkins, Esq.," that is to say, forged by John Motley, the Jacobite, just as, years before, Hobson's "Polly Peachum" and Ben Johnson's "Jests" had been forged.

People could get engaged and stay sane, but nobody would take any interest in them. (New York Press.)

ADAMS THE REAL BASEBALL HERO

Manager Chance, of Chicago Says Pittsburgh Youngster Is a Wonder.

HAS A MOST PUZZLING CURVE.

Case of Tonsillitis Gives Former Colonel a Chance To Win the World's Series.

THE BAD LUCK OF GAMNITZ.

ADAMS is the best pitcher on the Pittsburgh club," remarked Manager Chance, of the Cubs, the other day. "We didn't see much of him the last season, but we saw enough of him to convince us that he had in him the makings of a coming wonder."

Against a team like the Detroit Tigers Adams was exactly the right style of pitcher to beat them. Jennings has a team of players who can hit speed but cannot hit a curve-ball pitcher. Right there is Adams' strong point. He has a great curve ball and possesses excellent control of it. Besides this he has good speed and can mix them up pretty well, especially with Gibson back of the bat to coach him.

"Great credit is due Adams for the nerve he showed in that fight, indeed, it ever before, has a young pitcher played his first season of big-league ball been put into such a position. The Pirates veterans blew and Clarke had to fall back on this youngster. He did well in the opening game, and that gave him his chance to come back for a second trial. Again he was successful. It was evident he had something the Tigers couldn't hit, and it was also evident that the Pirates hit well behind the youngster. Clarke made a wise selection when he sent Adams in for that last game, and the last, under a tremendous nervous strain, showed he possessed all the nerve and ability of a battle-tried veteran."

A case of tonsillitis made "Babe" Adams one of the heroes of the season. Howard Camnitz, the star of the Pirates pitching corps, had been stricken by Manager Chance to open the series with the American Leaguers for the world's title, shortly before the season was over. To begin Camnitz was taken ill with tonsillitis. Clarke was desperate and it looked gloomy indeed to start so important a struggle with the pitching star in the hospital. The Pirates boss looked over his staff and finally chose Adams to lead off. If he got away with the opening game then the Pirates had their veterans to fall back on. If he fell down there were still those same veterans to come to the front and pull them out of the fire.

Such was the outlook when the contest opened on October 3. Adams "made good" and more. Then the veterans of the club had depended, failed in the emergency, and Clarke had to come back to this same young pitcher, serving his first season in major league games. Adams was as successful as in the opening game, and when the final test came with three victories for each club it was this same Adams who was called on to lead the fight for the Pirates. He did and won.

Adams faced the bats four times in the season of 1909, pitching twenty-six innings against the West Siders. Once he beat Chance's team, once he lost to it, and twice he was sent in to finish a game which he had lost by his teammates. Both of the games in which Adams worked the full route went extra innings. His first appearance before the Cubs, May 1, and he beat Brown 1 to 0 in eleven innings. Eight days later, on May 12, he pitched a shut-out against the Pirates, 4 to 0. On July 2 Adams pitched four innings against Brown after Camnitz had been knocked out. The score when Adams appeared was 4 to 0 against the Pirates. During his four rounds of service four more tallies came over his head, and he was counted off.

Clarke sent him right back the next day to finish another game that had gone against the Pittsburghers. He pitched only one inning that day, succeeding Leonard and Philippi, who had been knocked out. In that one round two hits and one run were scored off Adams.

Adams' last appearance against Chance's aggregation was September 6, the final game of the Cubs in Pittsburgh. They had won ten innings, and was decided 3 to 1 against Adams. Reulbach working for the Cubs, then the game was over. Adams pitched the last of his career, and he was counted off. In the twenty-six innings Adams worked against the Cubs eight runs were scored off him and twenty-seven hits were registered.

Adams is 25 years old, having been born at Tipton, Ind., May 13, 1883. He is 6 feet 1 1/2 inches tall and weighs 180 pounds. He is a right-handed pitcher and bats right. He was with the Parson (Kas) team in the Missouri Valley League, playing there in 1906. In 1906 he went to Denver in the Western League and played to the end of the next year, when he was bought by Pittsburgh. Clarke did not keep him in 1908, but "Lard" sent him to Louisville in the American Association, where he played that season. Clarke retained the option to recall him on August 20 for $1,000 and exercised that option at that time. He rejoined the Pittsburgh staff and has been with it all the last season.

Adams went to the slab in the fifth game of the series when he was hit by a line drive and again he was hit and put his team ahead. Seven hits were made off him in that game. Summers, Willitt and Mullin divided the work of pitching against him. Adams pitched the first two innings in this game and it was Fred Clarke's home run when two men were out on the bases that put the game out of the reach of the Tigers. Two home runs were made off Adams in that game, one by Harry Jones in the fifth and another by Sam Crawford in the eighth, but with no men on bases either time.

When the Tigers won the sixth game and tied up the series for the third time Fred Clarke was sent to the slab. He was not to be recalled on such a chilly day. San Leever was also a little certain and he was hit so he was not in the game he pitched that Clarke did not care to take the final chance with him. Before the series started Adams was known only as one of the promising young pitchers on the Pittsburgh staff. No one thought of him as being the man who would save the day for the Pirates in the world's series.

Even Maddox, the only other Pittsburgh pitcher to get credit for victory in the big series, was scored on often enough to give the Tigers a victory if it had not been for the fact that the game was out of their reach before they were able to solve Maddox's doubt to the test. He had pitched a miserable game and the Pirates had such a lead that it was almost useless to try to win.

"Babe" Adams worked in the opening game of the series and allowed six hits, two of which were in the opening round on top of a base on balls and resulted in a run. After that day, and the five hits in any one round and only two more bases on balls, Mullin pitched against him that day, and the five hits that were made off him were mixed up with three errors in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings so that the Pirates made four runs in a hurry and scored the victory.

Willis was too wild on the day he worked to be depended on, so Clarke pinned his faith to Adams, who had twice put the foe to rout. It was taking a tremendous chance with a youngster and it was against all baseball precedent to try to win for the third time with a pitcher who had already been twice. He was able to pitch a had game or to have the luck break against him enough so that he could lose. Not so with Adams. He showed that he was a great twirler. He was careful to serve up just what the Tigers did not like and when the Tigers found he was working just as well as did the other two experts they became nervous and despaired of winning. Six hits were made off him in the last game and only two were made in the same inning.

Adams was so wild that he forced in a run in that second inning after one man had scored, and it was all over but the shouting.

The shouting then, Mullin went in to relieve Donovan in the fourth, but it was no use. The Pirates had regained the confidence in themselves they had lacked all through the series and were now playing their real game. Mullin was hit by seven, and seven hits and six runs being made off him in the six innings that he worked.

Adams will be able to get anything he asks for from Harry Dreyfuss for next year. The young fellow will not abuse his privilege, as he is modest and his success has not turned his head in the least. He had the kind of a ball that the Tigers could not fathom and he was wise enough to use it until he had them beaten in each game. His slow drop he used continually when he wanted to make sure of his batters. He dropped it on the inside and then on the outside, mixing straight, fast ones in all the three games. He had one with the drop as often as he had one with the straight, and the great batter of the American League, quite only one in the series, was hit by Adams in the game which he won eleven times. That was an average of less than 100 for the champion batter of the league.

THE VOLUNTEER.

The Bugville team was surely up against a rocky game. The captain saw them fall to hit and gnashed his teeth and cursed. The third man snarled a double and the fourth one snarled clear. Then, in a thunder of applause, up came the volunteer.

His feet were planted in the earth, he swung a warlike club. The captain saw his awkward pose and softly whispered "dub." The pitcher looked at him and grinned, then heaved a mighty ball. The echo of that fearful snarl still lingers with us all.

High, fast and far the spheroid flew, it sailed and sailed away. It never was found, so it's supposed it still floats on to-day. Three runs came in, the pennant would be Bugville's for a year. The fans and players gathered round to cheer the volunteer.

"What is your name?" the captain asked. "What is your name?" cried all. As down his cheeks great tears of joy were seen to run and fall. For one brief moment he was still, then murmured soft and low: "I'm the mighty Casey who struck out (C. P. McDonald in Chicago Tribune).

MELODRAMA TO SUIT.

(Puck.)
In New York: Harry me and give me those papers, and you will receive $500,000 in cash. Refuse, and I'll toss you from the Brooklyn Bridge! In Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—and you will receive seventy acres of richest anthracite coal. Refuse, and you go into a coal breaker! Choose!

"It can't be done," the captain said, a gasp on his face. "I've got two pitchers in the field, a mut on second base, and should another man get spiked or crippled in some way, the game would be over and out with eight men left to play."

"We're up against it, anyhow, as far as I can see. My boys ain't hitting like they should, and the luck is with the other side; no pennant will win with 'em. It's my turn to pitch, but we must take our medicine and grin."

The eighth round opened—two, two, three. The Bugville boys went out the same—the captain was a frown. With only eight men in the field "would the two men had been put out. When Bugville's catcher broke a thumb and could not go the route.

A deathly silence settled over the crowd. The Bugville boys went out the same—the captain was a frown. With only eight men in the field "would the two men had been put out. When Bugville's catcher broke a thumb and could not go the route.

Defeat would be allotted them, they felt it in the air. With only eight men in the field "would the two men had been put out. When Bugville's catcher broke a thumb and could not go the route.

"Send me a man to finish with," he begged the other team. "Send you a man?" the foe replied; "my boy, you're in a dream. We came to win the pennant, too, that's what we're doing here. There's only one thing you can do; call for a volunteer."

The captain stood and pondered in a listless sort of way. The captain stood with cap in hand, while hopeless was his glance. And then a slender, stocky man cried out: "I'll take a chance!"

Into the field he bounded with a step both firm and light. And calmly took his station in readiness. The game is now beyond recall. He last at least a "volunteer" and he will find me muscular and sound."

His hair was sprinkled here and there with little streaks of gray. Around his eyes and on his brow a bunch of wrinkles lay. The captain smiled despairingly, and slowly turned away. When "he's all right," one rooster yelled, another, "Let him play!"

"All right, go on," the captain sighed, the stranger turned around. Took off his coat and collar, too, and threw them on the ground. The humor of the situation seemed to hit them all.

And he doffed the mask and milt the umpire yelled, "Play ball!"

Three balls the pitcher at him heaved, three balls of lightning speed. The stricker caught them all with ease and did not seem to heed. Each ball had been pronounced a strike, the side had been put out. And as he snarled to the bench he heard the rooster shout.

One Bugville boy went out on strikes and one was killed at first.

DETROIT TIGERS LEAVE FOR CUBA

To Play Series of Twelve Games At Havana—Cobb and Crawford Not With Team.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 23.—With Outfielder Matty McIntyre in the role of manager, a dozen members of the Detroit American League championship baseball team left here tonight for Havana, Cuba, to meet two Cuban ball teams in a series of twelve games.

The American League champions will measure their ability with the Havana "Reds" and the Almendares of "Blues" of Havana. Although his team will be without the services of Outfielders Cobb and Crawford, whose hitting played such a prominent part in the winning of the American League pennant by the local club, Manager McIntyre believes that he will present the strongest lineup of any American team which has ever played in Cuba.

In place of Cobb Catcher Beckendorf

NEW MANAGER FOR THE BUFFALO TEAM.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The management of the Buffalo Baseball Club, of the Eastern League, has signed a contract with William A. Smith, of Springfield, O., formerly manager of the Atlanta (Ga.) club of the Southern League, to manage the Buffalo team for the season of 1940.

The players left here tonight for Chattanooga, Tenn., where they will play on Monday.

Crowder Traded For Begley.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Punch Knoll, manager of the Evansville team of the Central League, announced today he had traded Ned Crowder, a shortstop, to the Zanesville (O.) team in the Central League, for First Baseman Begley.

"I hear the discoverer of the North Pole was at the last Pittsburgh-Detroit game," "Yes, he obstructed my view of second base."

FAR WEST WINS FEATURE RACE

Takes the Ravenswood Handicap In a Terrific Drive At Jamaica.

WINNER IS HEAVILY PLAYED. KILLING ON LILLIE TURNER.

Flying Squirrel Beats Sou, Sticker and Others By Short Margin In Laurel Stakes.

JEANNE D'ARC WINNER AGAIN.

AMERICA, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Far West, running in his best form, won the Ravenswood Handicap here today in a terrific drive. The horse was backed down from 15 to 1 to 1 at the close. Flying Squirrel won the Laurel Selling Stake by a head from Sou, Sticker and Glagole also ran.

First Race—Selling; six furlongs; $400 added. Jeanne d'Arc, 110 (Dugan), 2 to 5, 1 to 5, out. Enfield, 106 (Bergen), 15 to 1, 4 to 1, 5, out. Seymour Butler, 106 (Shilling), 10 to 1, 2 to 1, even. THREE CHOICES WIN AT LATONIA

Splendid Sport Is Witnessed In Spite of a Very Bad Track.

Many Horses Arrive From Canada and Other Strings Are Due To Arrive To-day.

SEVERAL CLOSE FINISHES.

SELECTIONS FOR MONDAY.

FIRST RACE—Samarra, Fleuron's Daughter, Grenel.

SECOND RACE—Listerine, Denver Girl, Admonitor.

THIRD RACE—Joe Moca, Mrs. Sewall, Dr. Waldo Briggs.

FOURTH RACE—Boca Grande, Royal Prince, Short Order.

FIFTH RACE—Righteous, Light Blue, Ludiana.

SIXTH RACE—Bellwether, Merrick, Dainty Dame.

BEST BET—Bellwether.

ATONIA, N. Y., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Bleak, autumn weather, with light showers throughout the afternoon, materially affected the attendance and made racing at the Mildred course today anything but a pleasant pastime. Notwithstanding the adverse conditions, however, a fair Saturday crowd was on hand, and with favorable sharing honors equally with second choices in a winning way, the "regulars" were well repaid for their pains.

Three heavily-supported favorites needed to catch the judges eye today while the balance of the card went to well-supported second choices. Speculation was extremely heavy, and the bookmakers failed to gather much on the day's program.

Selling plates predominated on the card, which was entirely void of a feature. This failed to detract interest in the contest, however, and with several of the events narrowing down to blanket finishes there was nothing lacking in the caliber of sport afforded.

The first division of the Canadian contingent got in this morning and included the horses of George Noel, Earl Morris, J. L. Breen and B. J. Malone. Jockey Howard, one of the leading jockeys on the northern circuit during the past season, who is expected to leave tomorrow, is scheduled to leave Windsor tonight for this place. Jockey Deyverly accompanied the Noel horses, while the strings of Johnny Ferras and J. S. Wilson will get in tomorrow. The newcomers bring the story of a great exodus of horses and regulars in this direction, all of which is good news to the local management.

James Reese, the well-known racing official of Montreal, was the guest of Judge Price and Dillon this afternoon. It was the first time in more than a year that Reese had been in the city. He is a native of this city and his old-time friends accorded him a warm welcome.

J. C. Core's Easy Victory.

The opening dash resulted in a cakewalk for the favorite, J. C. Core. The winner was backed to the ring's capacity and rewarded his backers by making a show of the horses he studied in the stalls. The Davis nag, reeling in the going, took command when his rider elected and opened up a big gap, which he continued to increase until he was in the final stretch. He was then easily outdistanced by the second choice, but he was not out of the race until he was in the final stretch. He was then easily outdistanced by the second choice, but he was not out of the race until he was in the final stretch.

Killing On Plume Falls.

The Reesep connections came within an ace of putting over a good thing in the second. The local crowd had Plume for a sleeper and the Reesep nag looked all over the winner in the final furlong, but John E. McMillan, to outdo her to the well, Plume assumed command immediately after the start and stayed there until she was in the final quarter, but McMillan, coming with a well-timed, caught and passed her out in the final stretch. Battle Fleet easily outdistanced her in the final quarter, but she was not out of the race until she was in the final stretch.

Eight Out of Ten Starters In the Inaugural Steeplechase Meet
With Mishaps.

JACK ATKIN WINS OPENER.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 23.—The fall meeting of the Maryland Jockey Club today opened most auspiciously with a large attendance and good sport. The inaugural steeplechase, the feature of the day's card, was a disastrous affair, eight of the field of ten going down. Three mounted and finished. The event went to Stella and after the most dangerous factors in the race made mistakes. Summaries:

First Race—Six furlongs; purse $500:

Jack Atkin, 120 (Rettie), 4 to 50 and out.

Charlie Eastman, 117 (G. Burns), 19 to 1.

PEITZ AGAN TO LEAD COLONELS

Owner Grayson Signs German
To Manage Team Next Season.

TO GIVE HIM STAR PLAYERS.

Report That Tom Chivington Will Succeed President O'Brien Seems Well Founded.

LIVELY BASEBALL GOSSIP.

VERY little is being said at present regarding the future line-up of the Louisville ball team. William Grayson, Jr., owner of the local club, is in St. Louis, but expects to return to this city the early part of next month.

Tom Chivington, the general manager of the Colonels, is motor-boating down the Mississippi River, and probably is not thinking about matters pertaining to baseball. The only representative here of the 1909 American Association champions is Nate Wilbur.

Nothing of interest can be said regarding the purchase of new men for the Louisville team. The chances are that just as soon as owner Grayson gets back here, the local fans will be told concerning several deals for players. It is almost certain that there will be at least two players brought in from other teams.

The only important news at present is the fact that the Colonels have again been selected to play the Colonels next year. The results he produced were so satisfactory that owner Grayson did not lose any time in notifying the veteran player that he would again be expected to lead the local team next year.

It is almost needless to say that the selection of the "German Baron" to lead the team of the year on the field next year will meet with the approval of all the followers of the 1909 champions. Everybody who knows Duffy has only words of praise for him personally, but there is no denying that serious doubts exist as to his managerial ability.

Duffy's record since becoming manager has not been such as to instill a feeling of confidence among the South Side rooters, and they are now arguing that as long as Cieskiy could not engage the services of a manager, a Cieskiy or McGraw he should have permitted Billy Sullivan to remain at the helm.

It is semi-officially stated that Duffy's contract is for but one year, with a provision for his re-engagement if the White Sox finish one, two or three. His salary is said to be $10,000 a year.

Bob Hedges, owner of the St. Louis American team, is in a predicament. By releasing Jimmy McAleer from the management of the Browns he has forced to take on Jack O'Connor. If O'Connor fails to produce the goods it is claimed that Hedges will sell out. And if McAleer makes good at Washington, St. Louis fans will realize no doubt that it pays to let a manager alone.

Senators' Tigers, having failed to defeat the Pirates, are about to take it out on the Cubs. They will stop for breakfast in Tampa, Fla., on October 25, 26 and 27. Then they are off for some square meals in Cuba. The fans believe there have been handing it to the Cincinnati Reds, but probably the fiercest Tigers will fare better.

It will not be $10,000 that Ty Cobb gets from the Detroit club next year, but the figures will hardly be far from it. Ty will likely get about $7,000, and be satisfied with it. He has put the figures at $10,000, but that is simply a starting point for the negotiations. If he expected, or was set on getting that amount, he wouldn't have named such a figure. Ballyplayers always ask for a little bundle over and above what they are willing to sign for.

Columbus has a few deals on which will be announced at the December meeting of the association. It is rumored that one pitcher has already been secured to bolster the club staff. A few angles of the deal yet to be cleared up, will make the giving out of his name a matter for later reading.

Adams is to Fount Moriah what Ty Young is to Paeoli. When the "Blade" reaches that place the prominent citizens will make a dash to see who shall have the privilege of carrying his baggage in the parade.

It must be awfully tough when one has captured three pennants in one's own league to be criticised for losing the final series. There is no question but that the fact that there will be much doing in the political end of baseball before the season is under way in next year.

It is more likely that when the association's general assembly in Chicago next year will be an important one. The season's progress to date has many surprises. Naturally the leaders in this league are not announcing their plans with brass bands. There is no denying the fact that there will be much doing in the political end of baseball before the season is under way in next year.

story structure, and when it is finished the chances are it will equal some of the plants in the big leagues.

Emory Olson, who will play with the St. Louis Browns, of the American League, next season, and Deanniers, who proved to be one of the winning pitchers for the local team this season, are playing ball with amateur teams in Kansas City.

The only players of the local club who expect to remain in this city are Halla expect to remain in the city are Halla and Orleans and he will play ball until the time arrives to report here in March.

John McCloskey, who managed the Milwaukee team this season, is home again and will remain here until the practice period begins next spring. Mack, of course, regretted that the Brewers were unable to capture the pennant after their great battle for the leadership during the best part of the year.

McCloskey to date has not signed a contract to handle the Brewers next season, despite the rumor to the effect that he has asked his signature to a Milwaukee document. Negotiations, however, for his services in 1910 are under way, and it is likely John McCloskey will agree to a short-term contract with owner Haveron.

In speaking of the American Association struggle for the flag McCloskey declared that it was a grand race. He confidently expected to land the slogan period, and believed that the Brewers would have been the pennant winners and not Stoney McEglin had he not been mis-hap to Catcher Hostetter which prevented him from playing all season. Nothing as yet has been heard of the prospect of new material to the Milwaukee club.

Joe Stanley, the former Colonel, and now a member of the Chicago Nationals, will return to Louisville the early part of next month. Joe will remain here during the winter, as he and Mrs. Stanley have many friends in this city.

Rudy Schwenk, the pitcher who was secured by the Chicago Cubs from the Memphis Southern League club, is home for the off season. The Louisville boy promises to become one of Chicago's leading twirlers. The few trials he had in the big league displayed qualities of stick-ling in the big league.

Word was received from Hugh Tate, who is at his home at Blaine, W. Va. Tate says that he is busy chopping timber, and when he is not doing this stunt he is taking shots at the birds and ducks. He further says that he has ready selected seasoned material to make bats, so he believes the Colonels will have no trouble in hammering out binges.

The announcement that Hugh Duffy is to manage the Chicago White Sox next season has not caused any enthusiasm among the followers of Cieskiy's team. Everybody who knows Duffy has only words of praise for him personally, but there is no denying that serious doubts exist as to his managerial ability.

A DAKOTA STORY.

(Housekeeper Magazine.)

I was talking with a Dakotan the other day. "Speaking of farms," he said, "we have some stable farms out in Dakota. Yes, sir, I've seen a man on one of our big farms start out in the spring and show a acre of 40,000 or 50,000. Then he turned around and harvested back."

"Wonderful," said I.

"On our Dakota farms," he went on, "it's the usual thing to send young married couples out to milk the cows. Their children bring back the milk."

"Wonderful," I repeated.

"Once," he said, "I saw a Dakota farmer's family prospered with grief. The women were weeping, the dogs were howling, the children were wailing and the tears ran down the farmer's cheeks as he looked at his twenty-mile team and drove off."

"Where was he going?" said I.

"He was going half way across the farm to feed the pigs."

"Did he ever get back?" I asked.

"It isn't time for him yet," was the reply.

THE MIGHTY SALVATOR IS DEAD.

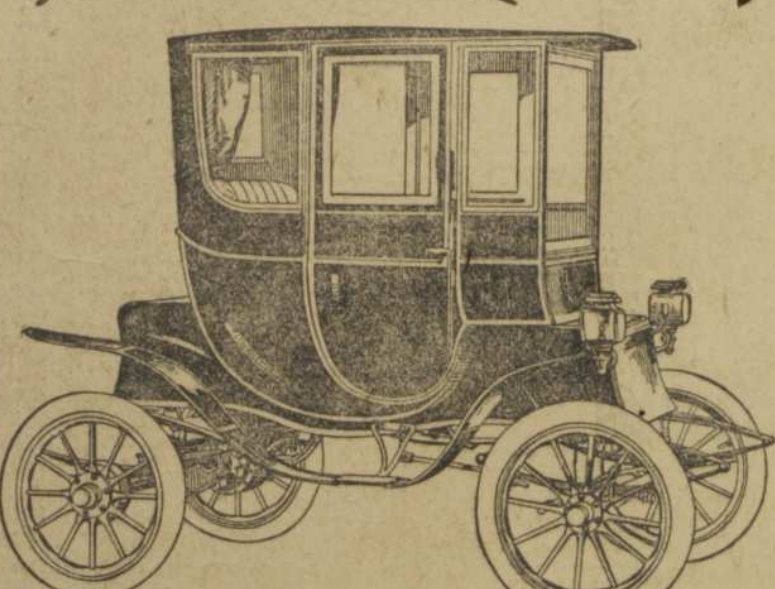

One of the World's Great Thoroughbred Horses Expires Suddenly In His Palatial Home At Elmendorf.

Marvelous Record of 1:35 1/2 For the Mile Still Stands.

L EXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Salvator, the mightiest race-horse of his time, and whose world's record of 1:35 1/2 for one mile has never yet been equaled in the nineteen years since it was made, died suddenly this morning in his palatial stall at James B. Haggin's Elmendorf stock farm, near this city, while he lay down for many years in luxurious idleness as the pet and pride of his millionaire owner. Salvator was 23 years old and, although his health had been failing for some time, it was not believed he was in any immediate danger of death. At 3 o'clock this morning he was standing at his rack slowly munching hay. When the watchman looked into his stall again at 5 o'clock he was lying down. When the groom came a short time later he found that, while he was quiet, there was something wrong with him. Dr. John R. Haggin, the Elmendorf veterinarian, was summoned and he found that the old race-horse had suffered a stroke of paralysis. At 8 o'clock Salvator died without a struggle, without disturbing a straw in his stall. Mr. Haggin, who was at "Green Hills," his mansion on the Elmendorf farm, was much affected when he heard of Salvator's death. Of the thousands of horses he has owned none ever got so close to the aged turfman's heart as did Salvator. Although he did not breed him, Mr. Haggin bought Salvator as a yearling, and it was in his ownership that he ran all of the races of his career, and in his hands he made his name as the greatest horse of the modern era. His record of 1:35 1/2 for the mile in 1890, which was secured when he won a mile in 1:35 1/2 against time. He went this mile in an effort to break what at that time the world's record, 1:34 1/2. This was the fastest mile ever run.

The Noisless Electric

The new Waverley Drive makes the Waverley pre-eminently the noisless electric.

The Motor is attached to the body with rubber cushions, which overcome the vibration. It thus hangs between the springs. The power is transmitted to the floating rear axle through a silent flexible gear enclosed in a dust-proof case and running in oil. No other system attached wholly to body is completely enclosed. The Waverley's dust-proof case prevents any noise and keeps out the grit. The Waverley's Herringbone gear on the floating rear axle overcomes any knocking and jerking.

Let us arrange a demonstration for you. We want you to see, also, the working of the new Waverley Controller, which makes this car the safest vehicle—the new Drop Sill, which makes it the easiest to enter or to leave—and especially we want you to note the surpassing beauty of the 1910 model.

HERE ARE THE 1908 2:10 PERFORMERS

A GREAT string of Grand Circuit horses, of both trotting and pacing classes, succeeded this season in negotiating miles better than 2:10 to stand for their individual marks. Many of the last year's stars lowered their marks of the previous season, while a likely bunch of newcomers succeeded in breaking into the coveted circle.

The fastest race mile, as well as exhibition mile of the year, was the one trotted by Hamburg Belle at North Randall, in which she was forced to stop in 2:04.1. Ulian's 2:04.1, made in exhibition at Columbus, was the next best trotting mark. A Columbus Copa de Oro was timed in 2:04 for the fastest paced mile of the year.

HINTS TO AUTOMOBILISTS.

Great for owners if true. An automobile registering instrument which is at most human in intelligence and more than human in accuracy has recently made its appearance in Paris under the title of "O. S.," says the New York Herald's European edition. One of the first of the instruments was fitted to an automobile belonging to Mr. Corlandt Field Bishop; another one, the makers declare, was supplied to the Great Car of Russia.

"The instrument, which has much the appearance of a speedometer and clock combined, established a permanent record of the movements of the machine under operation at the beginning of the day. It will indicate the hour the automobile left its garage, the hour and length of every stop, the speed of the machine at every minute, the average speed for either the whole or a portion of the run, to what extent the brakes have been used and, finally, the time when the run comes to an end. All these indications are printed on a narrow band of paper, thus forming a permanent record of the accuracy of which cannot be doubted.

The "O. S." register is a brass box screwed to the dashboard. On its upper surface is a speed indicator showing the speeds up to 100 kilometers an hour. On the front is a clock dial and two distance counters, one showing the total number of kilometers covered and the other the distance of the trip.

"Within the indicator is a band of blue paper a little more than an inch wide, which is placed under the control of a clockwork mechanism. The band bears horizontal and vertical lines, the former being graduated to represent miles from ten to 100 kilometers an hour, in fractions of ten kilometers, and the latter being graduated to represent minutes, five minutes, fifteen minutes and hours. When the automobile is at rest the band is unrolled from one vertical spindle to another, at the rate of one vertical space a minute. As soon as the automobile is put into motion the stencil begins to trace a line on the moving band, and it continues to trace until the vehicle comes to a stop.

"At the end of a trial run by a fast touring machine the band read as follows: Automobile taken out at 12:35; at 12:45, speed increased to 40 kilometers an hour; at 12:55, speed increased to 60 kilometers an hour; at 1:05, speed increased to 80 kilometers an hour; at 1:15, speed increased to 100 kilometers an hour; at 1:25, speed increased to 120 kilometers an hour; at 1:35, speed increased to 140 kilometers an hour; at 1:45, speed increased to 160 kilometers an hour; at 1:55, speed increased to 180 kilometers an hour; at 2:05, speed increased to 200 kilometers an hour; at 2:15, speed increased to 220 kilometers an hour; at 2:25, speed increased to 240 kilometers an hour; at 2:35, speed increased to 260 kilometers an hour; at 2:45, speed increased to 280 kilometers an hour; at 2:55, speed increased to 300 kilometers an hour; PARKVIEW is the new addition to Louisville. It is 500 feet north of Iroquois (Jacob) Park and has 1,500 feet frontage on the west side of the Park via Seventh-street car line and Taylor Boulevard. The land rises to the west with a gradual slope and scores of these lots are 100 feet higher than Taylor Boulevard and the street car line. Parkview nestles against the hills of Iroquois Park and affords a grand panoramic view of the city, the park and miles of surrounding country. The entire addition is dotted with forest trees and these extra choice lots are now being snapped up by eager buyers. Parkview is only a few minutes' ride from all of the South Louisville Manufacturing plants. Houses built on Parkview will find ready tenants and bring good rentals. Parkview is an ideal spot for a home. Schools, two churches and stores close by. Prices range from $50 to $400. Terms, 75¢ down and 75¢ per week on any lot. No interest ever. No taxes for two years. No payments for ten weeks if sick. Contracts and deeds issued by the Columbia Trust Co. Free title insurance with every deed. Title insurance by the Louisville Title Co. Take any car marked Iroquois Park via Seventh and get off right at Parkview. We have 50 lots fronting the car line. SALESMEN ON THE GROUND EVERY DAY, SUNDAY INCLUDED.

Administrator's Sale! A Splendid Corner Business Investment.

Southwest Corner Twenty-second and Maple Streets.

AT AUCTION

MONDAY, OCTOBER 25, AT 3:30 P. M.

This is a substantially built two-story frame business house with large storeroom and six living rooms, water and gas, brick foundation, good cellar and splendid stable on rear. Located in an excellent neighborhood, completely built up and surrounded by elegant little homes. In close proximity to several large manufacturing industries makes this a splendid business location. All city improvements made, and is now occupied by a good, prompt-paying tenant. This property is sold for a division of interest among the heirs, and should make a very attractive investment. Terms: One-third cash; balance in one and two years.

ELEGANT HIGHLAND HOME INVESTMENT
In the Most Desirable Home Section of the Highlands.
1257 Bardstown Road (Baxter Ave.), Opposite Beechwood.

At Auction Tuesday, October 26, at 3:30 P. M.

This is an elegant, modern, up-to-the-minute little home, arranged in two apartments. Lower apartment has four elegant rooms and bath complete, mahogany and Flemish oak cabinet mantels and hardwood floors. Upper one has five rooms and bath complete. Separate front and rear entrances and porch. Furnace in basement. Stone foundation and concrete walks. Splendid stable on rear of lot. All city improvements made. East Broadway cars passing the door makes this one of the most convenient and comfortable little homes in the city. As an investment it will rent for $750 per year. But for the fact that the owner is compelled to leave the city, this could not be bought for any price within reason. Terms: One-half cash; balance on long time; monthly payments.

DEER A PEST

Penney Farmers Complain of Depredations.

LAW PREVENTS KILLING OF DOES AT ANY TIME.

NO RECOURSE FOR MAN WHOSE CROPS ARE EATEN.

UNABLE EVEN TO USE DOGS.

The State Game Commission will have a knotty question to settle before long, but one that is of vital importance to farmers whose domains lie next to woods in which deer stay, writes the Williamsport (Pa.) correspondent of the Philadelphia Record. From three different points in Lycoming county reports have been received that crops have been practically ruined by the ravages of the deer. The presence of so many deer is attributed to the protection accorded by the present game law, which makes deer immune from killing. The boldness of the animals is remarkable. Jonas Wilson, who owns a small farm near the head of Sugar Creek, north of Warrensville, estimates that this season he has lost at least a third of the entire patch. Of the five, only one was a buck. He did not dare set the dogs after them because that is against the State game law, but he was under the impression that he had a legal right to kill the animals if they were again found in his fields destroying his crops. A report received here from the Lycoming section, and another from the Trout Run section, are of almost similar experience to that of the Sugar Creek man, and the backwoods farmers are determined that the deer must be reduced from such an oppressive condition as they will be compelled to sell their land at a sacrifice and desert the deer-infested belt. The Trout Run man reports that his entire buckwheat field was ruined in the fields, and by the tracks in the field it was guessed that there must have been as many as ten deer in the drove.

About Salt Springs.

A condition which eloquently shows the increase in the number of deer in the woods of Central Pennsylvania, due to the working of the present protection given the deer, comes from the State Game Commission. A series of small mountain springs, the water from which has a distinctive salty taste. Before the time of the lumbermen and the cutting of timber, the residents of that section of the State always knew the neighborhood of the "salt springs" to be choice deer country, because of the attractiveness of the water to the animals. The coming of the woodsman, however, drove the deer out. Four years ago the last stick of timber was cut, and the deer have since been just as lonely as ever. And with the loneliness came the deer again, only more plentiful than ever. A man who visited that section within the past month reports having seen eleven deer in the neighborhood of the salt springs. While the soil for many rods around show a perfectly leveled condition, the deer have roamed around. The wilds in that section, because of their isolated and ideal conditions, have become virtually a nursery for the deer tribe.

GETTING AN ART EDUCATION.

(New York Globe.)

"We all have heard of the American millionaire, newly rich, who is accustomed to employ a foreign painter to select his European paintings and other art objects for him, said a traveled New Yorker. 'But I encountered a real novelty in this direction the other day. A man was in my gallery, a man who had grown up with a taste for art, but no knowledge of it. Finding himself suddenly in a position to indulge his taste, and being in Munich on a tour of Europe, he had decided to buy a picture for a month or more. Then he found a competent man of small means and much of art, and employed this man to deliver a lecture to him daily on art and the history and various acquirements and periods of painting; an expert lecture an hour and a half in length, and he constituting the entire audience. Then he was followed by visits to art galleries together. Under the man's guidance he bought his own pictures abroad, and sent like one who was born in an art school and reared in a studio. Common sense method, I call that."

SPEED OF BIRDS' STATE.

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

A writer on birds says: "If you consult the usually accepted authorities on the speed of birds in their flight you are likely to be misled by an exaggeration of the speed of the swallow. It is because figures have been given on hearsay, appearance and very superficial observation. But recently, English and French observers have been comparing notes, and are practically agreed, after most careful calculation on the speed of the best known birds. They started with the carrier pigeon and have made him a base of comparison. He has heretofore been credited with 110 miles an hour, but it is now agreed that he is entitled to fifty. A long distance, carefully conducted test of 582 miles, from the Shetland Islands to London, showed that the most rapid pigeons made thirty-seven miles an hour. On shorter distances none made more than fifty miles. Because frigate birds have been seen far from land, and have been supposed not to fly by night or to rest on the water, they have been credited with a speed of from 150 to 200 miles an hour. If they did fly at that speed they would have to overcome an atmospheric pressure of from 112 to 130 pounds to the square foot of

Pay Big Dividends To Their Wearers

We place our reputation for honesty and intelligence—won in 40 years of serving the public—behind the statement that in no other garment can as great values be found—"values" meaning style, fit, beauty of fabrics, and service—as we are offering right now in "Winston" and "Brokaw" Suits and Topcoats—and especially is this true of our $25 line.

The "Winstons" are especially designed for young men and are replete with new, "snappy" style ideas.

"Brokaw" are more often selected by the staid business or professional man who prefers the conservative in dress.

The patterns are handsome in both lines of suits, showing a range from fancy grays to blues and blacks.

The Topcoats show Oxford, gray effects and black. Linings in Topcoats are serge or silk, as the customer prefers.

ERB SYNDICATE GETS C., C. AND L. ROAD

SECOND MORTGAGE BONDS PURCHASED TO ACQUIRE CONTROL.
MAY BE RESOLD TO HAWLEY FOR C. AND O.

NEW OWNER TALKS OF PLANS.

New York, Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Control of the Chicago, Cincinnati and Louisville railroad, which according to very definite rumors, was to pass to the Chesapeake and Ohio, has been secured by a syndicate of which Newman Erb is the head. The company, which defuncted successfully upon all three issues of its underlying bonds, amounting to $3,154,000, has been in a receivership ever since February 1938. Control of the road by the Erb interests was acquired by purchasing $2,600,000 of the second mortgage general and refunding bonds, of which the outstanding total is $2,016,000. In addition, the Erb syndicate has bought some of the road's car trust obligations, which aggregate $400,000, as well as six months' interest on the bonds, amounting to $174,000, which John McKinnon was last week authorized by United States District Judge Lacombe to sell for $200,000 on behalf of the National Bank of North America.

Those in control of the Chesapeake and Ohio have already declared their intention of extending to Chicago the road which now reaches only to Cincinnati. With the acquisition of the Chicago, Cincinnati and Louisville line would touch the Illinois frontier less than twenty miles from Chicago, and would cross the Clover Leaf, a Hawley road which now enters that city, just north of Muncie, Ind. A member of the Erb syndicate has moreover been quoted as saying that if the C. C. and L. couldn't be bought cheap enough the Chesapeake and Ohio would build.

Mr. Erb said on behalf of the syndicate which he heads that the purchase of the C. C. and L. control was not made on behalf of Edwin Hawley, but that he could be induced to sell.

"We have no intention," Mr. Erb, "but we don't expect to hold it forever. Ultimately it will be sold to a larger system, but we don't know whether it will be sold to the C. C. and L. or who the customer will be I cannot tell yet."
